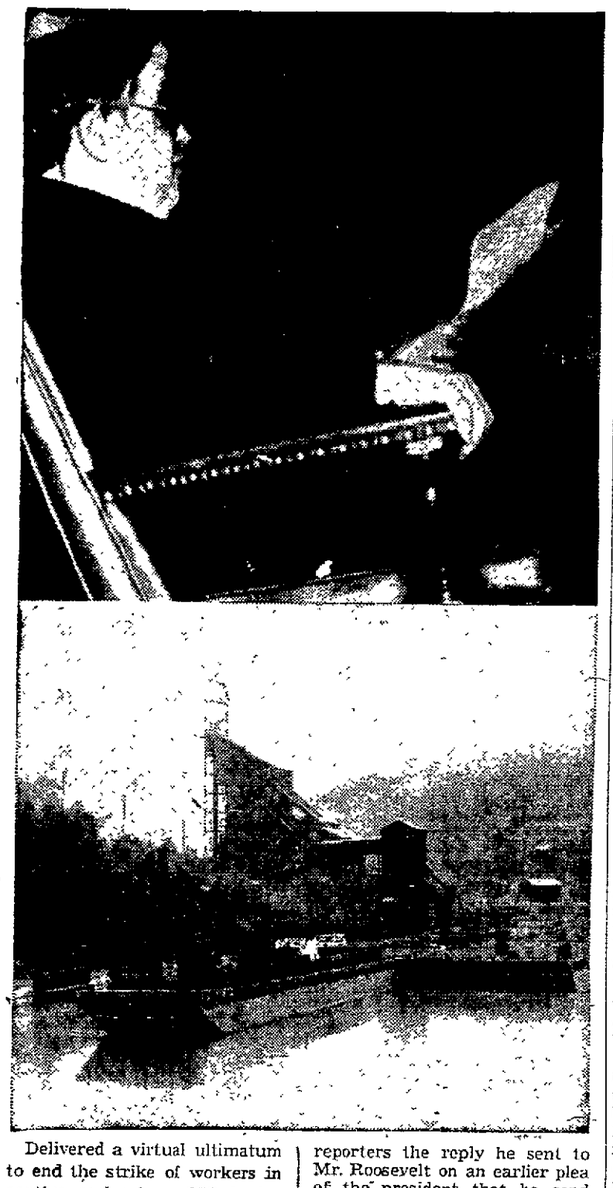
U. S. MOVES TOWARD NAVAL WAR

John Lewis 'Sits Tight'



Delivered a virtual ultimatum to end the strike of workers in captive coal mines, CIO leader John L. Lewis sat tight today on his orders that the men remain away from their jobs. He is shown here reading to his reporters the reply he sent to Mr. Roosevelt on an earlier plea of the president that he send the 53,000 miners back to work. Below is a scene at Harmarville, Pa., as empty coal barges began to collect at an idle mine of the Wheeling Steel company.

Wavell Armies Expected To Get 'Green Light' If Rostov Falls.

KHARKOV STILL HOLDS

Germans Knock Out Foundries In Donets Basin; Held 38 Miles From Moscow.

BULLETIN

KUIBYSHEV—(U.P.)—Russian shock troops and dive bombers pushed back German forces in a successful counter-attack on the Moscow front, war dispatches reported today, as the official press called for a last ditch battle in defense of the Donets basin.

(By Associated Press)

German troops were reported fighting today within 10 to 15 miles of Rostov, gateway to the Caucasus oil fields, the great "turning point" in the battle of southern Russia which may bring Great Britain's million-man armies of the Middle East into action.

London sources have predicted freely that if the Germans capture Rostov, the green light would be flashed to Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell's imperial forces to march through Iran (Persia) and establish a new British fighting front in the Caucasus.

Authoritative quarters in London said the German armies on the central front were still 38 to 40 miles from Moscow at the nearest point, but they acknowledged that in the south the Nazis were closing in around Rostov and imminently threatening to overrun the entire Donets river industrial basin.

Military advices reaching London said the Germans already had succeeded in knocking most of the basin's war foundries out of action, with several key points actually in Nazi hands and others isolated by crippled communication lines.

The Moscow radio, however, insisted that the big industrial city of Kharkov, Russia's

'Idiocy', Shout Germans as They Brand FDR 'Liar, Faker and Crazy'

(By United Press)

BERLIN—German spokesmen, denouncing President Roosevelt's speech today in a succession of statements which crescendoed from derision to rage, said that "Roosevelt evidently has the ambition to go down as the greatest liar and faker in world history."

"Such an example of shamelessness, rottenness, beastliness and idiocy never has been offered a modern nation," an authorized informant said. "Never has such a specimen of mental breakdown been shown. One can only ask if Roosevelt is a criminal or a lunatic."

The Nazis objected above all to the president's charge that Germany planned to carve South America into slave states and destroy present religions.

In their first statement, they had taken a light tone. This statement said the speech would cause the greatest amusement in Germany and that the charge regarding South America was

FDR Says U. S. Attacked, Hits Mine Walkout

CIO Chief Given Ultimatum On Work Stoppage In Captive Mines

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt confronted John L. Lewis with a virtual ultimatum today for a speedy end of the captive coal mine strike.

Underscoring his third appeal to the CIO mine chief to call off the strike, Mr. Roosevelt declared in his Navy Day speech last night that "our nation will and must speak from every assembly line—yes, from every coal mine—in our vast industrial machine."

A few hours earlier, the president had told Lewis:

"There is every reason for the continuance of negotiations.

"There is no reason for stoppage of work.

"It is therefore, essential that the mining of coal should go on without interruption."

Mr. Roosevelt gave no hint of the action he would take if Lewis failed to heed his latest manifesto. Everything, however, pointed to an imminent showdown which might affect not only the captive mine strike but the whole future question of labor disputes in defense industries.

In congress many tempers were growing short. In restive atmosphere, talk already was heard of quick legislative action to remedy the situation unless the work stoppage was ended hastily. It was reported that the general subject was touched on briefly during the president's conference with congressional leaders yesterday.

The United States Steel Corporation, owner of a number of the mines tied up by the walkout of 53,000 CIO members, announced an immediate curtailment of operations at most of its steel mills, which depend for their coal on the captive collieries.

For the second day, miners at

President Reveals Nazi Plan To End Religion, Carve Latin America

BULLETIN

ROME—(U.P.)—Thousands of uniformed blackshirt marchers converged on Venice palace late today carrying banners and posters denouncing President Roosevelt. Many of the posters depicted Mr. Roosevelt as garbed in a frilled collar and a fool's cap. The caricature was labelled "clown."

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt's emphatic statement that "the shooting has started" was spectacular notification today that the nation is moving beyond short-of-war boundaries into the field of limited naval hostilities.

America has been attacked, Germany fired the first shot, Mr. Roosevelt last night told his world wide radio audience and the total defense and Navy day diners who heard him in person at the Mayflower hotel.

His address revealing Nazi plans to abolish religion and to take over South America and parts of Central America, including the Panama canal, seemed significantly to combine with a dramatic reminder that the dead and injured aboard the destroyer Kerney were the sons of many states.

The whole appeared to be a summons to the hesitant at home, in Latin America and, perhaps, even in the Vatican to join the crusade against Hitler. Mr. Roosevelt's own estimate of his speech was that the religious phase was the most newsworthy.

He called again last night for the speedy arming of our merchant ships, insisted that they must be free to carry munitions directly to British ports and promised that the navy would protect our shipping. The neutrality act has been "outmoded by force of violent circumstances."

Mr. Roosevelt was interrupted 12 times by applause but the big outburst of whoops and cheering

SEE CHANCE TO KEEP SHIPS IN NEUTRAL ZONES

Senate Foes Claim Possible Votes To Thwart Broader Change In Measure.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Senate opponents of neutrality act revision today thought there was a "possibility" of defeating the proposal to send American ships into comgat zones and belligerent ports, but doubted that they could beat the house-approved plan to arm ships.

Senate non-interventionists reported that their own poll on repeal of neutrality act shipping restrictions showed support of "three or four" senators heretofore listed as voting with the administration.

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D., Mont., leader of the opposition who announced the results of the poll, did not reveal the names of the senators who had unexpectedly promised him support.

The poll did not indicate that the administration's bill could be blocked, Wheeler said, but he thought there was a "possibility" of striking out the parts added by the senate foreign relations committee which would repeal sections two and three of the act. Section two forbids American ships to enter belligerent ports; section three prohibits them from entering combat zones defined by the president. Section six—the only section repealed by the house—prohibits arming of merchant ships.

Senate non-interventionists held a meeting in Wheeler's office late yesterday after the

HALLOWEENERS 'SENTENCED' AS JOKE BACKFIRES

8 Lexington Boys and Girls In Court After They Erect Barricade In Road.

Barricading a county road with corn fodder one night and then returning two nights later to burn it in a Halloween prank, brought eight Lexington boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 17 into Richland county juvenile court today before Judge S. H. Cramer.

As a result of their escapade, the three boys in the party were ordered by the judge to remain indoors during the Halloween season and also to pay for the nine shocks of fodder which they destroyed in a bonfire. The girls escaped "sentence" after a lecture from the judge.

The youths were rounded up in Lexington yesterday afternoon by Probation Officer R. W. Carroll and Deputy Sheriff C. Humphrey upon complaint of Wilson Fry, a farmer living just east of Lexington, off Route 97. All of them were school pubils but one.

Fry told the officers that the offenders had taken the corn shocks from a field and stacked them in the road last Friday night. He said that he cleared the road as soon as he discovered the barricade and piled the fodder to one side. Sunday night the group returned to continue the celebration.

Ordered into probate court today by Officer Carroll, the juveniles were accompanied by parents and friends to intercede in their behalf.

Business Report Shows How Priority Orders Pinch City

The heavy, paralyzing hand of priority restrictions on materials needed by defense could be seen clearly, today, in the report of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce on local business during September.

Slowed up because of defense demands upon raw material markets, Mansfield business reported decreases for the first time this year in carloadings, automobile registrations, bank clearings, building permits, mercantile employment, and sales tax receipts.

Not shown as yet, because it took place toward the end of September, was the furlough of 1,000 employes at the Mansfield plant of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

The number of bus passengers and the amount of postal receipts showed gains. Another bright spot was the reduction of the relief case load from 259 cases in August to 246 in September.

John G. Routzon, secretary-manager, announced that although

URGES PLANT

Knudsen OK's Nation's First Electric Alloy Mill.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—OPM Director General William S. Knudsen today recommended construction at South Chicago of the nation's first steel plant designed specifically to produce electric alloy steel.

The proposed plant, to be operated by Republic Steel company, would be capable of producing 504,000 tons of alloy steel ingots annually for use in making ordnance, aircraft parts and other defense materials.

Knudsen's recommendations were made to the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which advances funds for construction of government-approved production facilities.

WANTS DIVORCE

Mae West Seeks Freedom From Man She 'Married and Forgot.'

HOLLYWOOD—(U.P.)—Mae West will seek to divorce the man she married 30 years ago and then "forgot," her attorneys said today.

They said she would file divorce action "perhaps today" against Frank Wallace, vaudeville hoofer. A WPA research worker three years ago found the record of the license issued to them April 11, 1911, but until recent months the actress denied the marriage.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The Upper Ohio Valley association said today in a memorandum circulated among members of congress that proposed canalization of the Beaver and Mahoning rivers from the Ohio river to Youngstown would hamper rather than promote the defense program.

PLEAD GUILTY ON SLOT CHARGE

Admit Gambling Count In Columbus 'Clean-up' Campaign.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Two men indicted in the slot machine cleanup in Columbus last spring pleaded guilty to charges of gambling in Franklin county common pleas court today.

They were Robert H. Warner, who brought about a grand jury investigation when he used a sledge-hammer on slot machines of other operators, and Harold Johnson, accused of operating slot machines at one American Legion post and three veterans of foreign Wars recreation rooms.

Sentencing was deferred pending arraignment of other persons named in the gambling indictments.

ALL THE WAY

Knox Declares U. S. 'In This Fight To the Finish.'

DETROIT—(INS)—The United States is "in this fight to the finish," Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox said today as he led dedication ceremonies of the new $20,000,000 naval ordnance plant of the Hudson Motor Car company in nearby Centerline.

Pointing to the address last night of President Roosevelt, the secretary said:

"That means that . . . from now on defense must be our primary objective. "You think you've done a lot here and you have but you've got to do more. You must work 24 hours a day, seven days a week if we are to have the tools to do the job."

FIRE HITS WAREHOUSE

SHANGHAI—(AP)—Six Chinese died today in a fire which destroyed large stocks of chemicals and celluloid stored in a warehouse off Nanking road and threatened to spread to nearby foreign-owned bulidings before it was controlled.

Winter Blows Chilly Breath Eastward, Mansfield Feels It

If you haven't put anti-freeze in your automobile radiator or built the season's first fire in the furnace, you had better do it now because Old Man Winter's long-delayed arrival is scheduled for tonight.

Mansfield residents, according to the weatherman, are in for a cold wave moving in from the northwest. Fair and colder weather was forecast for tonight and tomorrow.

Weather observers blamed a mass of cold air hanging over a broad belt of states eastward from the Rocky mountains for a depression of temperatures towards wintry levels. Snow flurries were reported in the northern and eastern Great Lakes region and snow was forecast for the Dakotas and Minnesota today.

G. E. Dunn, U. S. weather forecaster at Chicago, said the cold front was moving eastward rapidly. It passed Chicago yesterday morning and was expected to reach the east coast before noon today.

Lowest point hit by the mercury this morning was 30 degrees, two below freezing. Highest temperature reading yesterday was 65 degrees. Average for the past 24 hours, 47.5 degrees, was only 1.1 above the 16-year average. At noon the temperature had climbed to only 35.

A light rain falling late yesterday and early this morning was reported as having turned to ice but police said it was not heavy enough to cause traffic danger.

LINK SUSPECT WITH ATTACKS

Police Report Finding Knives And Guns In Man's Car.

SPRINGFIELD—(AP)—Police sought to clear up a wave of sex attacks on Springfield women today in questioning a 37-year-old man already identified, Prosecutor Jerome A. Nevius said, as the man who raped a 17-year-old Enon high school girl.

Police said they found in the man's car a rifle, shot-gun, nine stilettos, six traveling bags, and a folding cot. No charges have been filed.

The girl was picked up near Enon and driven to Bellefontaine where she was raped last Wednesday.

COBINA TO WED

Sets Early Date For Wedding to Wealthy Corporal.

HOLLYWOOD—(U.P.)—Cobina Wright, jr., and Palmer T. Beaudette will be married Monday at Riverside church, New York, in a formal afternoon service, it was announced here today.

The society actress said she and her millionaire corporal—he's a member of a prominent Detroit family—had decided hastily on the early wedding date because of his appointment to an officer's training school.

Proposal To End 'Hot Mix' Suit Expected Soon.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Assistant Attorney General E. G. Scheussler said today that an entry proposing settlement of the $3,000,000 "hot mix" highway suit will be filed in Franklin county common pleas court late this week.

The taxpayer suit was filed three years ago against more than 30 highway paving contractors for alleged overcharge to the state on road materials.

Scheussler said that there still were "a few minor details" of the settlement to be worked out but added that settlement was "almost certain." He reported that $80,000 was the figure agreed upon but in addition contractors will have to pay almost $2,500 in court costs.

OBJECTOR SENTENCED

RALEIGH, N. C.—(AP)—David R. Morgan, 24, honor graduate of Wake Forest college who refused to fill out his draft questionnaire because, he said, he objected to war, has been sentenced to 18 months in the federal reformatory at Chillicothe, Ohio.

Give Brother Over To Police After Learning Of Theft

Taken to police headquarters by two older brothers, a 17-year-old Mansfield youth admitted that he stole $85 worth of jewelry from the home of Dr. Carl R. Damron, 30 South Mulberry street, while a $20,000 fire was being fought there last Wednesday.

The youth handed over a $25 wrist watch and a $10 pocket watch but told police he had "thrown away" a $50 diamond ring on Hedges street near Diamond.

Although the youth told them he had searched for the ring many hours at a time since throwing it away, police made a search for themselves but were no more successful than he was.

Dr. Damron reported to police Wednesday night that the jewelry and a $5 bill had been taken from one of the rooms of his home.

The missing ring belonged to Bertha Witschi, stenographer for Dr. Damron. Police said that no charges would be pressed against the youth but they stated he will have to pay Miss Witschi for the loss of her ring.

The youth's brothers told police they had told him he would have to surrender to the police after they learned he had taken the jewelry.

WINDS KILL 19

Injury Toll Over 100 After Tornadoes Hit Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(INS)—The death toll stood at 19 today from two tornadoes which ripped through widely separated Arkansas towns Sunday night, crumbling many small homes. More than 100 persons were injured.

Worst of the two twisters struck Hamburg, where 13 deaths were counted. Six were killed at Dardanelle and Bethel, about 120 miles northwest of Hamburg.

Damage was greatest at Hamburg, where the tornado cut a swath half a mile wide through the town. Soldiers from Camp Robinson aided relief agencies in the care of refugees. At Dardanelle and Bethel, the twister limited its damage to a 100-yard wide path and the situation there was less acute.

Bette Davis Returns to Hollywood From Bedside of Husband.

HOLLYWOOD—(U.P.)—Actress Bette Davis returns to Hollywood today by airplane from Minneapolis, where she hurried last week to the bedside of her husband, Arthur Farnsworth.

Miss Davis remained with Farnsworth until assured he was recovering from pneumonia. She interrupted work on her first picture since a dog bit her on the nose to make the flying trip to Minneapolis.

MAYOR DIES

OSBORN—(U.P.)—Harry E. Frahn, 71, mayor of Osborn for the last 22 years, died at his home yesterday.

Start Survey Of Food Costs For Check With U. S. Figures

Mothers clubs at the Friendly House have started a 12-week survey in an effort to determine the relation of food prices in Mansfield to a nation-wide index set up by the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply in Washington.

Russell Gimbel, Friendly House director, said that the mothers, working with other settlements in the National Federation of Settlements in New York, would collect data on prices they pay for foods and turn the information over to the OPACS heads in Washington.

By this means it is hoped the OPACS can obtain information which will aid its investigators in adjusting prices to fit the pocket for the working man.

"The National Federation of Settlements," Gimbel said, "suspects that food prices have taken an unwarranted jump because of the defense effort.

"It is our purpose to see that there is no profiteering which will hurt the laboring man."

As operating at the Friendly House, the plan entails a weekly check by mothers of just what they pay for a certain selected group of foodstuffs.

In the group are such foods as round steaks, granulated sugar, navy beans, coffee, milk, butter and flour.

Each week, according to Gimbel, the mothers will meet at the settlement and report their findings on a chart showing the high, low and average prices paid dur-

Approval of Fire Levy Next Tuesday Will Rid City of Its No. 1 'Headache'

Your Vote Will Help Get New Trucks and Equipment.

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of articles explaining Mansfield's fire protection problems and showing what the passage of the proposed half mill tax levy would do to solve them.)

Mansfield's No. 1 civic headache . . . its antiquated fire department undermanned and without dependable equipment to properly battle a major conflagration . . . can be relieved by voters next Tuesday if they approve the half-mill tax levy.

With approximately six and a half square miles to protect, the 34 members in the department are hard pressed. Only half are on duty at a time and even then they are split up to man four stations, cutting the potential fire fighting strength at most fires to only two men in the suburbs and 11 at the most in the business and industrial sections.

Biggest problem at the present, however, is not the undermanned force but the equipment with which they must work. Described by Service Safety C. M. Crafton as "rattle-traps," the antiquated pieces of apparatus have lived up to their name since the $100,000 Home Materials lumber yard fire last spring.

U. S. MOVING TO LIMITED WAR ON HIGH SEAS

FDR Asserts 'Shooting Has Started' In Address on Navy Day.

came when he directly denied the right of President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America to shut down production in captive coal mines.

In 101 razor-sharp words, the five most significant of which were wholly extemporaneous, Mr. Roosevelt dealt with business and labor obstruction to national defense.

"Our national will must speak from every assembly line—yes from every coal mine," the president began but was interrupted by a burst of cheering at the interpolated reference to coal—"in the all-inclusive whole of our vast industrial machine. Our output must be multiplied.

"It cannot be hampered by the self obstruction of a small but dangerous minority of industrial managers who hold out for extra profits, or for business as usual.

"It cannot be hampered by the selfish obstruction of a small but dangerous minority of labor leaders (more cheers and shouts) who are a menace—for labor as a whole knows that that small minority is a menace to the true cause of labor itself (more cheers) as well as to the nation as a whole."

He said that we must supply the British and the Russians and the Chinese and that "we dare not fail."

"We have wished to avoid shooting," the president said. "But the shooting has started. And history will record who fired the first shot. In the long run, however, all that will matter will be who fired the last shot.

"We Americans have cleared our decks and taken our battle stations.

"Our navy is ready for action. Indeed, units of it in the Atlantic patrol are in action."

Mr. Roosevelt confidently predicted defeat of Hitlerism and promised our help in establishment of "a new peace." He snapped his listeners up sharply in their chairs by revealing that he possessed a secret Nazi map showing plans for domination of much of Latin America and the Panama Canal and another secret document from Berlin outlining plans for substitution of an international Nazi church for all established religions.

"It is a map of South America and a part of Central America," Mr. Roosevelt explained, "as Hitler proposes to reorganize it. Today in this area there are 14 separate countries. But the geographical experts of Berlin have ruthlessly obliterated all existing boundary lines. They have divided South America into five vassal states, bringing the whole continent under their domination.

"And they have also so arranged it that the territory of one of these new puppet states includes the Republic of Panama and our great life line—the Panama Canal. That is his plan. It will never go into effect.

"This map makes clear the Nazi design not only against South America but against the United States itself.

"Your government has in its possession another document made in Germany by Hitler's government. It is a detailed plan, which for obvious reasons, the Nazis did not wish to publicize just yet, but which they are ready to impose on a dominated world—if Hitler wins.

It is a plan to abolish all existing religions — Protestant, Catholic, Mohammedan, Hindu, Buddhist and Jewish alike. The property of all churches will be seized by the Reich. The cross and all symbols of religion are to be forbidden. The clergy are to be liquidated, silenced.

"In the place of the churches of our civilization, there is to be set up an international Nazi church. In place of the Bible, the words of Mein Kampf will be imposed and enforced as the Holy Writ. And in place of the Cross of Christ will be put two symbols—the swastika and the naked sword."

These sensational warnings were accompained by a roll call of the states from which came the men killed or injured on the destroyer Kearny.

"Illinois, Alabama, California, North Carolina, Ohio, Louisiana, Texas, Pennsylvania, Georgia, Arkansas, New York, Virginia," Mr. Roosevelt said, "those are the homes of the honored dead and wounded of the Kearny."

He paid high tribute to the bravery of the Russian people. He chided those who questioned our assistance to them by repeating a remark of Secretary of State Cordell Hull that anyone sufficiently interested in defeating Hitler would not worry about who helped do the job.

Recalling that we have been in a state of unlimited national emergency for just five months, Mr. Roosevelt said.

"America has been attacked. The U. S. S. Kearny is not just a navy ship. She belongs to every man, woman and child in this nation. Hitler's torpedo was directed at every American. The purpose of Hitler's attack was to frighten the American people off the high seas—to force us to make a trembling retreat.

"If our national policy were to be dominated by a fear of shooting, then all of our ships and those of our sister republics would have to be tied up in home harbors.

"Naturally we reject the absurd and insulting suggestion."

Warning again and again that the "Nazi design" is against South America and the United States, itself, Mr. Roosevelt said Hitler's march must and can be stopped and that our job now is to arm the men on the fighting line.

"We dare not fail," he said. . . . "It is the nation's will that America shall deliver the goods. In open defiance of that will, our ships have been sunk and our sailors have been killed.

"I say that we do not propose to take this lying down. Our determination not to take it lying down has been expressed in the orders to the American navy to shoot on sight.

"Those orders stand!"

Although he originally approached amendment of the neutrality act with extraordinary caution, Mr. Roosevelt went all out last night for repeal of those provisions which limit our efforts to supply Great Britain by carrying our munitions directly to her docks in our own ships.

Declares Nazi Plans Are No Surprise

BUENOS AIRES —(AP)— Juan Antonio Solari, acting chairman of the Argentine congressional committee investigating anti-Argentine activities, said today President Roosevelt's revelations of German plans to dismember South American countries "could not astonish" Americans.

"We already knew that contempt was professed for our countries by the Germans," he said.

He asserted that a German spokesman had referred to South America as inhabited by "slaves and barbarians," adding that after recent victories it was not surprising that Hitler was making plans for the future.

Mexican Calls FDR Talk 'Historic'

MEXICO CITY — (U.P.) — Alejandro Carillo, liberal member of the chamber of deputies today characterized President Roosevelt's Navy day address as "historic" and probably the most important statement he has made thus far regarding the war.

Carillo expresed belief that "without the slightest doubt" Nazi fifth columns, particularly in Argentina, Chile, Bolivia, Panama and Mexico were working toward an objective to dominate Latin America as demonstrated by Mr. Roosevelt's report of the Hitler map to repartition the continent.

Sen. Walter F. George, D., Ga., former chairman of the foreign relations committee and co-sponsor of the senate bill, will speak for the administration today.

It was apparent from the time the senate was gaveled to order at noon yesterday that the debate on this change in foreign policy was destined to make history. The senate galleries were filled when Chairman Tom Connally, D., Tex., of the senate foreign relations committee was recognized and presented the administration's case.

The only other speech was by Sen. Arthur H. Vanderberg, R., Mich., who replied for the opposition.

Immediately after Vandenberg concluded, Sen. Alva B. Adams, D., Colo., submitted the conference report on the $5,985,000,000 lend-lease appropriation, which the senate approved without record vote. It now awaits President Roosevelt's signature.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Rescued by a Lakewood fireman from a precarious perch in a tree overhanging steep Rocky River valley, Thomas Thompson, 36, of Parma, today faced an intoxication charge filed by Lakewood police.

Ernest Neuschwander, 54, told police answering an accident call that Thompson ran from the scene of an automobile accident, hurdled a three-foot guard fence and plunged over the 125-foot cliff. The tree stopped his fall half-way down.

Police picked out Thompson with a searchlight, firemen were called and he was hauled to the top of the cliff. All this time Thompson's passenger, Carl W. Mullenhagen, 51, had not moved in Thompson's car, police said. He also was charged with intoxication.

Germans Shout 'Liar, Faker' Following Roosevelt Speech

"the high point in the Roosevelt fantasy and the emanation of a crazy and absurd imagination."

The second statement called the president's speech "a conglomeration of suspicions, insults, slanders, forgeries and imputations such as could not be worse."

The third statement said:

"Roosevelt said we would deny his allegations. We won't deny them. One does not take the trouble to deny a fool."

In this statement, an informant said an unidentified "high German personality who has a great personal interest in these matters" compared the president with King Ludwig II of Bavaria, patron of Richard Wagner, who died in 1886.

"He would have days of complete mental clarity and others of complete lunacy," the statement said. "If Roosevelt's mental state is not lunacy then it must be that of a political criminal."

(Historians generally hold that Ludwig, who was drowned in Lake Starnberg, was insane as he had been adjudged.)

The informant said that the president had not shown a "shadow of proof" regarding his South American allegation.

"It is obviously an out and out swindle and fake," said the authorized spokesman. "No such map existed at all."

He suggested that the map might actually have been one of "United States air bases or air lines" in South America.

It was charged that the president's allegations regarding German religious intentions "were even better proof of his lying and faking."

London Jubilant at 'Shooting' Speech

LONDON — (INS) — While the government maintained temporary silence, British newspapers today jubilantly splashed and analyzed President Roosevelt's Navy day address informing the world that for America "the shooting has started."

The London Evening Star, under the headline, "shooting," commented in an editorial:

"President Roosevelt's challenge to Hitler cannot be ignored. "Soon American warships and merchantmen may be seen in our ports."

And the London Evening News said:

"President Roosevelt called on his countrymen for one more step along the road that the inexorable logic of events is drawing them."

All early editions of London evening papers gave first position to reports of the American chief executive's address, and headlines focussed on his statement that the United States has taken its "battle stations."

"Pittsburgh of the Ukraine," was still in Soviet possession. Official German reports said the city fell last Thursday.

Adolf Hitler's field headquarters, picturing the Russians as on the run, reported that German troops yesterday penetrated the town of Kramatorskaya, 100 miles southeast of Kharkov, in the sweep through the Donets basin.

"Thus the Soviet Union lost one of its biggest tank factories," the Nazi communique said.

"Other important industrial towns were taken by Hungarian units. Pursuit of the retreating enemy is being continued."

German front-line dispatches said bad weather was proving a powerful ally of the Russians, but asserted the Red armies already were defeated from a military point of view and that a break in the weather would bring the destruction of remaining Soviet forces and "thus conclude the war in the east according to German plans."

A Red army bulletin reported that fierce all-night fighting raged in the sectors of Mozhaisk, 57 miles west of Moscow, and Maloyaroslavets, 65 miles southwest of the U. S. S. R. capital, while on the Ukraine front, the heaviest action centered around Kharkov and Taganrog.

Military dispatches from Kuibyshev, auxiliary Soviet capital, said German troops had scored a 15-mile advance from Maloyaroslavets yesterday to within 50 miles of Moscow. Latest reports reaching London indicated the Nazis had gained another 10 to 12 miles, driving the Red armies ever closer to Moscow despite the "no retreat" orders of Soviet Gen. Gregory K. Zhukov.

The Russian government alleged Germany had another handicap, a sharp lowering of morale and physical strength of her soldiers, reputedly "on the verge of exhaustion" from the offensive campaigns.

Berlin references to the weather as a powerful ally at the side of the Russians indicated that mud and slush still prevailed on much of the long front from Murmansk to Taganrog.

A German military spokesman said last week a freeze would be welcome to give hard surfaces for the movement of motorized equipment.

The elements prevented British bombers from taking off for the raiding on German centers on the continent overnight.

Germans said, however, the German air force sank two vessels totaling 13,000 tons from a strongly-defended convoy near Great Yarmouth and damaged a 5,000-ton craft near Bridlington, on the English coast.

Russians told of a fresh outbreak of fighting about besieged Leningrad, saying 57,000 Axis soldiers had been killed or wounded in four days of combat with both sides dug in for trench warfare.

ing the week for the specified commodities.

At the end of the three-month period they will be able to determine from their records whether the price of food is rising or not and just how much it is rising.

Following that, the information will be forwarded to the OPACS offices in Washington where it will be compared with a price set as fair by the administration and records gathered by other settlements over the nation.

If the price in Mansfield should appear unwarranted, the OPACS will have it in its power to send investigators to Mansfield to discuss the matter here and attempt to find a remedy.

In each instance, Gimbel said, an attempt will be made to purchase the foodstuffs each week at the lowest possible cost.

many of the businesses showed decreases during September that they still maintained gains over last year.

Industrial employment, according to the chamber figures, amounted to 12,810 during September. This, of course, has dropped nearly 1,000 since. The 12,810, however, is a gain of .23 per cent over employment in August, a 9.21 per cent gain over September, 1940; and a total gain of 18.5 for this year to date.

Auto registrations show a drop of 17.02 per cent in falling from 182 in August to 151 in September. This is a gain of 8.61 per cent over September, 1940, however, and a continued gain of 21.26 per cent for this year.

Bank clearings dropped from $10,545,572 in August to $10,405,125 in September for a 1.33 per cent loss. The figure is 30.61 per cent better than in the same month last year and 22.54 per cent better than at the beginning of the year.

Bus passengers jumped from 153,204 in August to 166,490, a gain of 7.98 per cent. Postal receipts showed a gain of 30.46 per cent in going from $23,494 to $33,784.

Mercantile employment dropped only 1.74 per cent after showing gains of 13.42 per cent over last year and an increase of 16.13 per cent this year to date. Total employed in mercantile work was 1,975.

Sales tax receipts dipped from $54,052 in August to $50,680 or 6.24 per cent. Gains for the year to date amount to 17.15 per cent.

Carloadings in Mansfield followed the trend with a 2.06 per cent slide from 4.278 to 4,190. Gains of 28.64 per cent and 24.44 per cent over last September and since the beginning of the year respectively were recorded.

MARY JANE SONNER MARRIES BYRON BUELL AT CRESTLINE

CRESTLINE — A pretty wedding was solemnized Sunday afternoon before the altar of the First Presbyterian church when Miss Mary Jane Sonner became the bride of Byron E. Buell. Rev. Louis Swartz, pastor, officiated, using the single ring ceremony which was witnessed by a group of friends and relatives.

Baskets of yellow chrysanthemums, palms and ferns decorated the church altar. Mrs. A. A. Remy presided at the organ console for a quarter-hour of nuptial music preceding the ceremony.

The groom's sister, Miss Glenna Buell and Richard Rombke were the attendants. Ushers were Richard Byers and Jerry Jones.

For her wedding the bride was becomingly attired in a two-piece frock of chestnut brown crepe with which she wore a small hat and other accessories of a darker shade of brown. Her shoulder corsage was of white roses and gardenias. Miss Buell's frock was an olive green shade and she wore black accessories and a corsage of white roses and carnations.

A reception for about 50 relatives and invited friends was held at the Blue Lantern following the ceremony. A 3-tiered wedding cake decorated in yellow and white and yellow chysanthemums decorated the serving table.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Helen Sonner of Cleveland, and Albert P. Sonner of this city, graduated from Crestline high school and the Mansfield Commercial Business college She has been employed in the office of the Schill Manufacturing company.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Buell of 356 Clink boulevard. He is a graduate of Mansfield high school and is employed by the Pennsylvania Railway company as a fireman.

Following their return of a trip through the eastern states they will reside at 233 West Bucyrus street.

CRESTLINE COUPLE MARRIED AT SHELBY SETTLEMENT SATURDAY

CRESTLINE—The wedding of Bernadette Metzger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Metzger of north of Crestline and Jack L. Hauck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Hauck, Scott street, was solemnized Saturday at Most Pure Heart Catholic church in Shelby Settlement. Rev. F. Abair, pastor of the church read the nuptial mass.

Attending the couple were Mary Ann Metzger of Cleveland and Vincent Metzger of Shelby, sister and brother of the bride.

Ushers were Robert Hauck, brother of the groom and Otto Stein, brother-in-law of the bride.

Bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums and candelabra decorated the church and also the tables for the dinner served at the Shelby Inn following the ceremony. Covers were placed for 30 which included members of the immediate families.

A reception for relatives and friends was held at the home of the bride's parents between 2 and 5 p. m. Here again the yellow and white color scheme prevailed.

White slipper satin with seed pearl trimming fashioned the floor length gown worn by the bride. Her four tiered veil of bridal illusion was caught with a Juliet cap of seed pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of white mums and white roses and her only jewelry was two strands of pearls the gift of the bride-groom.

Her attendant wore aqua taffeta trimmed in coxcombe. Her crownless velveteen bonnet was trimmed with ostrich and had long streamers and her flowers were coxcombe mums and roses.

When the couple left later in the day on an eastern trip the bride wore a beige wool dress with brown accessories.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Crestline high school. The bride is employed at the Shelby Metal Products company and the groom at the Schill Manufacturing company in Crestline.

Out of town guests in attendance at the wedding were from Cleveland, Bucyrus, Shelby, Galion and Crestline.

John L. Lewis Overrules President

AN OPPORTUNITY to humiliate President Roosevelt was not overlooked by John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, when he placed the president of the United States in the position of appealing to him to prevent a strike by miners engaged in producing coal essential to uninterrupted operation of industries engaged in defense production.

Since the 1936 campaign, in which the United Mine Workers organization, under direction of John L. Lewis, contributed $500,000 to the fund used for re-election of President Roosevelt, the administration has been in the awkward position always created by a political obligation, and has been required to "appeal" rather than to command, in all instances in which the course of mine workers has run counter to national welfare.

This has been particularly in evidence since defense work has been in progress and the strike of 53,000 workers in mines operated to supply industrial needs serves as an example of the dangerous power held by one man who seems willing to sacrifice national safety in order to enforce union demands for a closed shop.

The president's first appeal to Lewis, asking him to extend the truce pending further negotiations, was rejected. The second, intended as a final effort to prevent a strike, was ineffective and the strike became effective yesterday.

In his second appeal, sent to Lewis on Sunday, President Roosevelt pathetically pleaded: "I am therefore, as president of the United States, asking you and your associated officers of the United Mine Workers of America, as loyal citizens, to come now to the aid of your country. I ask that work continue in the captive coal mines pending settlement of the dispute."

It was the clearly stated wish of the president of the United States that there be no strike. But it was the wish of John L. Lewis that there be a strike. Therefore there was a strike.

It was also said in President Roosevelt's letter to Mr. Lewis: "In this crisis of our national life there must be uninterrupted production of coal for making steel, that basic material of our national defense. That is essential to the preservation of our freedoms, yours and mine; those freedoms upon which the very existence of the United Mine Workers of America depends."

Until it can be determined whether John L. Lewis, and other persons in positions of organized labor leadership, are more powerful than the government of the United States, expenditure of the nation's full effort on the defense program can scarcely be expected. The present situation must be highly gratifying to the enemies of democracy.

Anniversary Week for Girl Scouts

OBSERVANCE of Girl Scout week, which started Sunday and extends through next Saturday, again centers attention on this fine organization which has been a great influence for good during the 29 years since the movement was founded in the United States by Juliette Low, of Savannah, Ga.

It is gratifying to know that Mansfield's widely diversified activities include an excellent and steadily growing organization of Girl Scouts and that a number of Mansfield women are giving the time and effort necessary to leadership and direction of girls who are enrolled in various local troops.

Each day of this week is devoted to some special phase of Girl Scout interests, today being designated as Arts and Crafts day; tomorrow as Outdoors day; Thursday as International Friendship day; Friday as Citizenship day, and Saturday as Health and Safety day, all being linked into this year's general theme of national defense.

A feature of exceptional interest, in rounding out the week's program, will be the tour of Mansfield's municipal building, the Richland county court house, and the Red Cross production center, planned for next Saturday morning, as this will give Girl Scouts an opportunity to learn more about the functioning of city and county government and also give them a close-up view of the important work being done by the Red Cross, which is soon to enter upon its annual membership rollcall.

A part of the Girl Scout program in Mansfield is to train additional leaders, to provide for expansion of the work, and a training course is available for women interested in qualifying for leadership.

Women who have leisure time which they wish to devote to some form of service to young people will find the Girl Scouts a worthy and worthwhile organization in which to display an active interest.

History Is Already Repeating

SOLOMON SAID: "What hath been shall be, and there is nothing new under the sun." The general situation in this new World war is strikingly like that of 25 years ago. There are differences in personnel and leadership, and to some extent in the choosing of sides; but in the main, the issues and the line-up are the same.

The biggest difference is the centering of German leadership in a more daring and ruthless person than appeared on either side in the last war. So far Hitler has handled the strategy and called the moves, as Kaiser Wilhelm for a time was wrongly supposed to have done in the last war. At present, the success of his leadership seems to be hanging in the balance.

One of the most striking repetitions in German war policy is the renewal of the ship-sinking that brought the United States actively into the last war. Apparently it is destined to have the same result now.

Flying Has Limitations

GREAT PROGRESS is being made in the art of flying, but it will not monopolize transportation, says W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines. He doesn't believe planes will become as plentiful as automobiles.

"For one thing," he explains, "they're not so flexible. You can't park them in front of the bank. For another, it requires more ability to operate a plane than an automobile. A lot of the Sunday drivers I have seen would be missing Monday morning if they were flying planes."

Still, he admits, we have a generation of young people now who have grown up with airplanes and have built model planes, and often know as much about them scientifically as the professionals do.

Ersatz Heroics

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WELL, as you remember, George Hopkins was finally rescued.

Mr. Hopkins, as you know, is the "stunt man" who recently bet a friend $50 that he could make a parachute landing on the top of Devil's Tower, Wyoming. Devil's Tower is a volcanic pillar rising 1,200 feet above the surrounding terrain, something less than an acre on top, with sheer walls which few have scaled.

When Mr. Hopkins made his bet, he didn't whisper. All America knew of his wager, or it wasn't George's fault. Thousands trekked to see him ascend and listened to the merry quips he megaphoned below. But ascent was one thing, descent was quite another. After six days the quips weren't as merry nor the audience as enthusiastic.

After many a hair's-breadth escape, planes stopped hovering ...gents stopped scrambling... took their busted shins and fractured noodles home. Then eight sturdy rescuers stepped in, rolled up their sleeves, tore up their life insurance, and proceeded to salvage Mr. Hopkins.

It proved to be Some Job. Said rescuers spent eight hours in the actual rescue, as well as large, unreckoned amounts of energy, perspiration, time and cash in preparation — to say nothing of the risk to their own and their families' lives. During which fracas, Mr. Hopkins proved to be a considerable pain in the neck. He was so weary, say the reporters, that "he had to make part of the descent in a rope cradle."

From which you might gather that this writer is ag'in stuntmen, show-offs, smart-alecks, and other spotlight seekers. And you'd gather right.

There's nothing novel about Mr. Hopkins' stunt. Daily, some exhibitionist jumps from a bridge, canoes over rapids, straddles the coping on an umpty-umph floor building, parachutes into a remote wilderness or courts death in some other fantastic manner ...after carefully prepared advance publicity. And, daily, other citizens attempt to save them. Then everybody snivels or applauds...Our Hero takes his choice of a dozen contracts... and we all go around glowing in reflected glory. But why? If you know your America, the answer is obvious.

AMERICA EXPECTS PEOPLE TO ACT LIKE THAT. It's the logical outcome of a heroic tradition founded by actual daredevils such as Kit Carson, Daniel Boone and Buffalo Bill. There was real danger in those days and real men to meet it. The danger was not publicized in advance...nor capitalized by smart press agents. It was accepted as part of the normal, pioneering hazard...and taken in one's stride when it happened. But nowadays, such melodramatic risks have become part of our whole synthetic program. They're "Ersatz" risks...all-of-a-piece with Broadway cowboys with boudoir sun-tans, who croon wild-west jamborees. And personally I think something should be done about 'em.

Obviously, you can't cure a Smart Alex—but you can throw a whale of a scare into him which may prevent him from making a public nuisance of himself and a perilous risk to innocent bystanders. Nor can you easily control American emotionalism — nine-tenths of us being Boy Scouts or Camp Fire Girls at heart. But we can make such displays of emotionalism dagonned expensive and embarrassing.

Some stiff fines and a few nights in the cooler would work wonders with the smarties and suckers who support such didoes. After which, we might all begin to grow up...a process which is long overdue!

Use of Hedges.

A few years ago, clean fences and walls were one of the signs of a good farmer. Today, wise farmers are leaving a strip of grass and brush along their boundaries.

The experts of the department of agriculture and the state experiment stations have found that it pays to leave these strips of brush. These hedges are havens for wildlife. The songbirds, quail and pheasants make their homes in these protected areas. In return for their nesting site, the feathered friends of man aid him in controlling insects of all kinds. This is practical, inexpensive conservation.—Christian Science Monitor.

Why Students Are Fired From College.

If your son is one of those who is "on the dean's list" or outright fired from college at this season of the year, it may not be his own fault, says William Lyon Payne, in the current Rotarian magazine. It may be just as much the fault of the parents or the school which sent him to college. Take a look at the circumstances and think them over, before blaming the boy—or girl.

The author, himself an instructor who has some 500 conferences a year with freshmen, finds that the usual student comes ill prepared for college, not necessarily in his lessons, but in his concepts. Movies have given him a false idea of college life, and the freedom allowed misleads him as to his duties. That's his fault. But too many students don't want the courses their families select for them, or should have a chance to determine for themselves the lines they wish to follow.

Supply Route Studded By Hazards, Ice May Block Path to Archangel

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Biggest backstage decision the administration has had to make—next to appeasement of Japan—has been the resolve to put all its supply eggs in one basket and concentrate thousands of tons of tanks, airplanes, trucks and aviation gasoline at the Arctic port of Archangel.

This was a very hazardous decision, and was made only after considerable debate inside the army and navy, where some officers argued that Archangel could not be kept free of ice all winter; that the Nazis would be able to take the railroad leading to Archangel; and that priceless U. S. supplies might be captured in the same way the British lost their mechanized equipment at Dunkerque.

Major reason for finally deciding on the Archangel route was not fear of the Japanese at Vladivostok, but two other factors:

(1) The long, long haul, not only 5,000 miles across the Pacific, but 5,000 more miles across the Trans-Siberian.

(2) The fact that the Russians were determined to put up an all-out, last-ditch stand at the Volga River, and convinced Averell Harriman's military advisers they could do it.

World Watches.

SO, THE eyes of the world will be focused this winter on Archangel and the battle of the Nazis to cut this American lifeline to the Russian army. Here are some of the factors influencing that battle.

First is ice. After January 2, the port of Archangel and the White Sea are frozen solid. In 1918, when American troops spent a dreary winter at Archangel, British ice-breakers were unable to keep the ice open. But though the Russians say they now have big modern ice-breakers which can do the trick, U. S. experts still have their fingers crossed.

A modern ice-breaker has no trouble cutting through a frozen mass a couple of feet thick. But when it gets to be seven feet thick, the ice-breaker usually slides out on top of the ice and sometimes gets stuck. Furthermore, the wind and tides drift the ice after it is broken, so it piles up in great vertical cakes seven and eight feet high.

Finally the most difficult part of the Archangel route is through the neck of the White Sea, a narrow strip only fifty miles wide where the land juts out under the water, making the channel even narrower. In this shallow water the ice freezes almost solid, and it is feared that U. S. vessels, getting stuck in the White Sea, will sit there all winter, easy targets for Nazi bombers.

Vital Railroad Junction.

THE NEXT big hazard is the railroad south to Moscow. This is a 700-mile stretch, and half way between Archangel and Moscow, at Bologda, another rail line shoots east to the Volga river and the new line of Russian defense. This route east is the one over which U. S. water materiel will be hauled.

So a terrific battle is sure to be waged to capture the Bologda railroad junction. In fact even today, confidential reports from Russia declare that Finnish ski forces are being organized by the Nazis for an expedition to cut the rail line.

Another rail line runs down from Leningrad to Bologda Junction. And if the Nazis can clean up Leningrad, they are sure to launch a drive along this route.

However, the Russians have been concentrating a tremendous army in this area between Moscow and the vital port of Archangel. They say they can defend the entire rail line, and so far they have been able to convince Harriman's hard-boiled military experts.

Unjust Food Prices.

ARE YOU paying high prices for pork chops? AAA Administrator Rudolph Evans says food prices should be falling, not rising.

As he made this statement, Evans had in his hand a slip of paper just handed him by AAA market experts. It read, "Hogs, slow, generally 10 to 20 cents lower than Tuesday's average."

Evans pointed out that hog prices had dropped nearly $1.50 per hundred, from the recent high; also that other prices are falling off. Butter, usually the bellwether of farm products, is cheap. (The British are buying cheese, not butter.) Also, wheat and corn are off.

AAA is endeavoring to prevent British food purchases from boosting domestic food prices, and Evans says there are abundant food stocks to supply the British without causing the slightest increase in U. S. prices.

His chief worry, however, is the future, when British buying and the U. S. defense boom are over. To the question of what will happen to the American farmer then, Evans gives this two-fold answer: (1) Resumption of the AAA crop and acreage reduction; (2) a large-scale drive for foreign markets, even at the cost of heavy subsidies.

Merry-Go-Round.

IF YOU haven't made your blood contribution to the Red Cross blood bank, don't fail to do so. There's nothing to it. It takes only a few minutes and at no time is there any pain or discomfort. The usual donation is a pint from men and a half pint from women. This is one way you can make a truly personal contribution to the army and navy. . . . Square-shooting Attorney General Francis Biddle has ordered prosecutions on every anti-trust case that was pending when he took office. Biddle is a militant defender of little business men and has issued orders to his Justice Department to protect their interests to the limit . . . The special House committee, headed by Representative John Tolan of California, that is investigating defense problems, will shortly issue a scorching report on the defense housing muddle. Coordinator Charles Palmer will be sharply criticized and the committee will recommend a complete reorganization of federal housing agencies, with a new big appropriation for more construction . . . You can write it down that the isolationist-packed senate committee conducting the movie probe will not tackle the radio companies. The original intent was to do so, but public reaction to the biased movie investigation has been so unfavorable that the isolationists have quietly decided to drop the radio inquiry.

Need Farm Products.

THOSE little pigs that Henry Wallace slaughtered eight years ago are coming "to life" again. Wallace's successor, Claude Wickard, has just completed a swing of the country, in which he exhorted farmers to produce not less pork, but more, not less eggs, not less cheese, not less hay and pasture crops, but more—more of almost everything.

And the odd part of it is that Wickard and Wallace see eye to eye. The change is a change of the times.

The biggest element of that change is the stupendous British requirements for food. Already we have shipped or bought for England about half a billion dollars' worth of farm products. Within the next few months we expect to supply another billion dollars' worth. During 1942 we plan to send the British almost a billion and a half pounds of pork and lard; 18 million pounds of poultry meat, mostly chicken; about a half billion dozen eggs; about a million and a quarter tons of fruit; more than two and a half million cases of canned vegetables; and dairy products that will require nearly five billion pounds of milk for these demands.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Suppose we call today's essay "Inside John Gunther." It seems like a good time to talk about the man who wrote "Inside Europe," "Inside Asia," and "Inside Latin America."

Gunther is blond and big-shouldered and has the high voice that is so frequently peculiar to big men. Dempsey, for instance. He even has Dempsey's buoyancy; he is quick on his feet; but where Dempsey is nervous and jerky, Gunther is easy and drawling in manner. When he sits on a divan he sprawls. He is very easy to talk to.

When I called on him today I had in mind that he had just visited all 20 of the Latin republics to our south, that since this visit he had turned his conversations and observations into 180,000 words of hard, bull-headed reporting. The book, just out, is "Inside Latin America."

I SAID' "When you land in a country, what is the first thing you do?"

He said, "Before you get there you've got to know what you want to find out. You've got to have the questions you want to ask all figured out. Then you do nine things:

"1—See the American chiefs of mission—the ambassador and the people who are close to him.

"2—See officials of the government—the president, the minister of foreign affairs, people like that. In the 20 countries I visited I interviewed 17 presidents.

"3—Talk with the leading people of the opposition. Often you learn more that way than any other.

"4—If there are any American news correspondent in town, look them up and try to ascertain their views.

"5—Then look up the local correspondents—the natives.

"6—After this make a point of talking with American and foreign business men.

"7—Then interview professors and artists and young students who are out of politics, in order to get their views on the government, on national and international affairs. I try to find out what the people themselves think.

"8—Next, visit the British embassy and the major foreign embassies.

"9—Lastly, and this is most important of all, each night without fail I write down notes on every conversation I've had during the day. I have complete notes on 338 talks and interviews I had in South America."

THIS is the routine Gunther followed in 20 Latin American countries, in every nation in Europe, and in every nation in Asia. Within a few hours after I left him he boarded a clipper for London. He will be gone six weeks. When he returns his "Inside Asia" will be revised, brought up to date. Then he will attempt to parse the U. S. in a book to be called "Inside United States."

That's a big order. How he will go about it I wouldn't know. No doubt the only place those plans can be found at the moment is "Inside John Gunther."

A Farmer's Diary

Crippled Newsboy

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

AS I WENT along a city street not long ago I heard a childish voice crying the daily paper. It rang out three different times before I reached the spot.

The newsboy was small and very slender. He shivered a little in the cool morning air that held the tang of frost. At a second glance I saw a small crutch behind a little chair, but he stood so straight beside the doorway of a tall building that I had not noticed at first that his leg was off below the knee.

"Paper, mister?" His thin face was turned up to mine, and his dark eyes beamed at the prospect of a three-cent sale. Graciously he handed me a copy and thanked me for the pay.

"It's chilly, mister," he remarked, as I hesitated to leave. "I've been here a whole half hour—ain't had my breakfast yet, but Mom'll soon call me. We live on top of that store over there in a two-room apartment. Mom can pull up the blind and look to see me here, and I wave to her. She goes to work in a shop every morning after breakfast. If anything happens that shouldn't, Tim, the baker next door, helps me out when Mom's away."

"What's your name and how old are you?" I asked.

"My name's Jim and I'm six now. I wasn't six soon enough that they'd let me start to school this year. Some big boys said that for a crippled boy that didn't matter much—but when I told Mom, she grabbed me and hugged me hard and said 'Yes, it does.' She says I'll go next year and do as well as any of 'em."

His one foot danced on the sidewalk as his keen eyes looked across to the window of his home.

"I can go pretty fast on one foot," he went on, "but I don't get so tired with a crutch. Some call me Limpy—I don't mind, but when I told Mom, she looked way off out the window for quite a while and then she said such boys ain't nice. Mom says God thinks as much of a crippled boy as of anyone else—but sometimes when my papers don't sell and nobody stops, God ain't so close neither.

"I played football up there with the boys, once, and made a touchdown. That was the most fun I ever had playin'. Nobody thought I had the ball...but old Tim holds me in his arms and warms me, often, and sometimes he gives me a whole cooky. Do you think a daddy would be as good as old Tim is?"

I held his two cold grimy hands in mine and warmed them before I left. "I hope you'll come back and buy another paper," he told me. I shall not be in his town again for a while, but I did not forget him. Perhaps his mother may read this and tell him so.

MANSFIELDER'S WILL NAMES 2 WELFARE HOMES

Mrs. Frederick Leaves $2,000 To Mission Group, $1,000 To 'Boys Town.'

Bequests of $2,000 to the Bowery Mission and Young Men's home in New York and $1,000 to the Boys' home at Father Flanagan's "Boys Town" in Nebraska were made by the late Mrs. May L. Frederick, part-owner and treasurer of the Mansfield Business Training school, in her will which had been filed today in probate court.

Mrs. Frederick, who died Oct. 20, also left $2,000 to a friend, Elizabeth Fisher Appleman, former teacher in the business school; one share of stock in the business school and personal property items to Miss S. Marie Weil, a teacher in the school; and four shares of the school stock and a diamond ring to Mrs. Naomi O. Harbaugh, another teacher in the business college.

The bequest to Boys Town was made in memory of Mrs Frederick's son, John Lowell Frederick, who died a number of years ago She left the Bowery Mission bequest in memory of her son and her husband, the late Perry W Frederick.

Mrs Frederick asked that Myrle Taylor Gray of Coshocton be named executrix and instructed her executrix to have a mausoleum erected in the Mansfield cemetery at a cost not to exceed $7,000 for herself, husband and son The residue of the estate after the bequests are made will go to the executrix, under provisions of the will

Mrs Frederick was interested in young peoples' work and particularly in helping those who needed financial backing to attend school. She had no immediate relatives when she died

Value of her estate was estimated at $15 000 in the application for administration, but the appraisal is expected to show more than that H G Miller, S A Foltz, and R S Gibson were suggested as appraisers

PARENTS SEEK SPAN OVER RUN

Approximately 90 parents of children in the vicinity of Vennum avenue have petitioned city council to construct a bridge and walk over Ritter's Run from the end of the avenue to Johnny Appleseed school

In their petition, the parents claim that the children are forced to go to school by a round about route which exposes them to many traffic intersections

To remedy this, the parents suggest that council construct the bridge at the head of Vennum avenue At present, children must walk from Vennum to Cline avenue by way of Ohio and Wood streets or by way of Sloane and Bartley avenues.

LOUISE VON ENDT TO WED ROLLIN GETTLES

Office Associates Honor Bride-Elect at Party Given Last Night at Home of Miss Martha Sauder, 566 Harter Avenue.

OFFICE ASSOCIATES of Miss Louise von Endt honored her last evening when Miss Martha Sauder and Miss Ida Willis entertained at the Sauder home, 566 Harter avenue. Miss von Endt will become the bride of Lieut. Rollin Gettles, Fort Bragg, N. C., sometime this winter. She is the daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth von Endt, 642 Oak street, Marion. Mr. Gettles is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Gettles, 142 Rae avenue.

The 11 guests present spent the evening hemming towels for the honoree and later presented her with a shower of linen gifts. The office associates from the Prudential Isurance company presented her with a wedding gift.

At a late hour a luncheon was served at a long table decorated with a mixed bouquet and other appointments in pink and blue.

Club Members Entertain For Husbands Monday

Child Guidance club members entertained their husbands with a dinner party Monday evening at Hotel Talbott in Galion. Dinner was served at long tables decorated with fall flowers and Halloween appointments. Mrs. Frank Gadfield, toastmistress, gave a short welcome speech to the husbands and Mrs. Paul Ackerman, president, gave a toast to the men.

Leroy McGinty gave a toast to the women. Bridge was played during the evening and prizes won by Mrs. Frank Breckenridge and Bart Haley. Hostesses for the party were Mrs. Henry Albers, Mrs. Gadfield, and Mrs. McGinty. Mrs. Charles Freehafer will entertain the club at her home on Hammond avenue on Nov. 10. Mrs. Forrest Kimmel will be the associate hostess.

Halloween Party Held By Auxiliary

Thirty attended the Halloween party given by members of the Women's Auxiliary to the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks recently at the Prospect park pavilion. Husbands and guests were in attendance and prizes for the best costumes were won by Mrs. Clifford Lister and M. R Zacharisen. A short business session was held after which dancing and games were the diversions. Refreshments were served at a later hour.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Howard Wells, Mrs. Charles Glasgow, Mrs. Henry Emmer and Mrs. William DeHart. Club prizes were won by Miss Margery Wells and Mrs. Paul Old. The next meeting on Nov. 19 will be a session for election of officers.

The next session will be held Nov. 10 at the home of Mrs. Loris, Sunset boulevard.

Ohio Country Reviewed By Mrs. Redding

"The Ohio Country" was graphically described by Mrs. Lester Redding at the meeting of the Victorian club Monday afternoon. Mrs. Irl Fisher, Park avenue west road, was hostess at her lovely country home to 20 members. Mrs. Redding gave a geographical outline of this state and stated that it is the transition country between the Jersey coast and the middlewest. She traced the present roads from the early Indian paths to the paved highways.

She used as her reference, "Geological Survey of Ohio" by Peattie. An interesting point given by Mrs. Redding was that approximately $275,000,000 is the total of the income received from tourists in Ohio during a year's time, due to the state being a crossroads of the United States.

Mrs. Fisher served a dessert-luncheon at the noon hour with appointments in the fall colors. Mrs. Paul Cropper presided at the serving table. The next meeting of the club will be held Nov. 10 at the home of Mrs. C. W. Jelliff, 136 Marion avenue.

An up-to-date housekeeper knows that pretty aprons are part of her technique of keeping things spic and span! Make yours from Pattern 9893 by Marian Martin...you'll need at least two for yourself. Make Apron A with a square neck and button-on suspenders that cross in back and add the buttons on the scoop pockets! Make version B with a scalloped bodice and with straps of contrast like the optional pockets. Both aprons look sweet when accented by either ric-rac or ruffling. You'll find the Sew Chart is an immense help in stitching this pattern up quickly.

Pattern 9893 may be ordered only in sizes small (32-34), medium (36-38) and large (40-42). Small size, view A, requires 2½ yards 35-inch fabric; view B, 2⅛ yards 35-inch fabric and ¾ yard contrast.

Send 15 cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your Size, Name, Address, and Style Number.

Send your order to The Mansfield News-Journal, Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.

WED SUNDAY

BUCYRUS—Miss Esther Baird, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Baird, and Robert E. Wagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wagner, Sulphur Springs, exchanged marriage vows in St. Paul's Lutheran church in Sulphur Springs Sunday.

Both were graduated from Sulphur Springs high school in 1936. Mrs. Wagner has been employed as payroll clerk at the Galion North Electric company, and Mr. Wagner is employed at the Ohio Seamless Tube company in Shelby.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

My eyes searched Miss Whitlock's face, for I felt that behind her plausible wish to see her patient's first reaction lay a deeper, greater anxiety for Lillian. But the nurse had put on her professional mask, and I could glean nothing from that inscrutable countenance.

It seemed hours instead of minutes that we waited in the quiet room at the back of the house, so well insulated from noise that only faint sounds came from the streets outside. A furtive side glance told me that the lines around the mouth of Lillian's husband were etching themselves more deeply, and I felt that if Lillian did not soon come out of her death-like sleep, my own self-control would snap, and I would have to rush from the room to keep from shrieking.

Lillian's Face Unchanged.

I knew, of course, that this was only a flagging of my nerves, knew that actually I should stand calmly with Harry, ready to give any aid in our power to the stricken woman who meant so much to both of us.

I did not see the slightest change in Lillian's face, nor hear any difference in her breathing, but suddenly the nurse came in between Harry and me with a murmured "Stand still, where you are!", dropped to her knees between us and put her hand above Lillian's, but did not touch her.

"You are safe in your bed, Mrs. Underwood," she intoned, and I remembered a tooth extraction I once had, and similar murmur from the attendant, "You are coming out of the gas, Mrs. Graham."

Miss Whitlock repeated the sentence twice, adding after the last one, "and I am here—Miss Whitlock."

Patient Finally Wakens.

There was a faint flutter of Lillian's eyelids then, and the nurse lowered her hand and gently placed her fingers on her patient's wrist.

The flutter of the eyelids quickened, the eyes half opened, closed again, then opened wide, and like "burnt-out holes in a blanket"—a horrible simile which came irresistibly to me from some distant memory cell—went slowly from the nurse's face to her husband's, and then to mine.

I saw her lips frame the words "Harry!" "Madge!", but she did not utter them, and for several seconds she lay quiet, her eyes resting first on her husband and then on me, while Miss Whitlock remained upon her knees, the tips of her fingers exploring her patient's pulse while her keen eyes noted her breathing and color; or rather, her lack of it, for my friend's face was ashen against her pillows.

Memory Returns.

Then, as if remembrance had just come back, her eyes widened and a look of horror came in to them.

"Oh, Harry, Harry!" she wailed. "I remember now! Marion! My baby girl! Oh, what shall I do?" I had seen and heard many tragic things since I have grown to womanhood—and before—but never have I witnessed such horror and grief as was depicted on Lillian Underwood's face.

Her husband gathered her into his arms, holding her tightly against him, and Miss Whitlock rose swiftly to her feet.

Told There Is Cheering News.

"Keep her that way," she said, and went out of the room, returning almost at once with a hypodermic syringe in her hand. She signalled to me to help her, and I loosened one of my friend's arms from her husband's clasp. Then the nurse, with swift efficiency, sponged a spot upon it and the free arm sent the needle home.

"Not an opiate," she explained, "but something steadying." Then she spoke to me.

"Tell Mrs. Underwood now whatever you can get her to understand," she said.

I spoke first to Lillian's husband, who was holding her in so close and loving a clasp.

"Turn her face towards me," I said, and he obeyed me. When Lillian's eyes were close to mine I looked intently into them and spoke with firm and earnest deliberation.

"Lillian!" I commanded. "Look at me! I have something—cheering—to tell you about Marion."

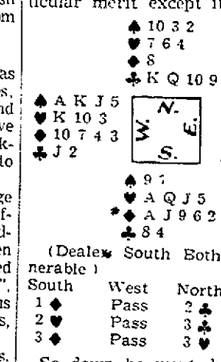
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHO IS THE REBIDDER?

Whether the rebid of a suit is a sign-off or not depends largely on who made it. If it was the original bidder, he cannot possibly be signing off and showing a worthless hand. He may merely be indicating still greater length, and may have some surplus values in his hand, yet no other logical rebid. But, if the partner of the opening bidder makes a minimum rebid of his suit, he may not have an earthly thing except that suit, and even it may not have any particular merit except its length.



(Dealer South Both sides vulnerable)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	3 ♥

So down he went, his just deserts for failing to heed his partner's signoff. West led the spade K, followed with the A, then offered his 5 to the Q, making South choose between ruffing himself down to three trumps or discarding. He preferred the latter, putting on the diamond 2. The heart 2 was returned by East, the Q finesse losing to the K, and the heart 3 was fired back to the 8 and A. The diamond A won and the diamond 6 was ruffed by the dummy's last trump. The club K fell to the A, the club 7 went to the Q and then the club 10 was led, the diamond 9 being discarded and West ruffing with the heart 10. Later a trick had to be lost to the diamond K, so the contract was down three.

If South had paid attention to the weakness advertised by North's second club bid at the range of three, and had passed, his partner would have made the contract, losing only two tricks in spades, one in hearts and one in clubs, unless East led the A and another club, which would have prevented the ruffing of a spade. In that event, the contract would have been set only one trick, not three.

Makeup for The Older Ladies

By MME. QUI VIVE

Hooray for the dear old girls! They weren't like that when grannie was a belle. Not-a-tall. Had to be dignified and stately. Just sat around, waiting to die. There's no age limit now to activities. As long as one can keep on going, one keeps on going to town. It's swell. Old age has no terrors if one doesn't have to be an Alice-sit-by-the-fire. Grandmothers are holding down jobs, joining in the merry evening, dancing, having fun.

Of course the ancients and honorables among us use makeup. Why not? Remember the hue and cry that went up when they bobbed their hair? Or maybe you're too young. The world was in a state of frightful commotion about it. Short hair was not respectable. Can you beat that? What has the length of hair got to do with character? Anyhow, the new viewpoint shows that we're stepping.

There are complexions that, as the years roll by, assume a satiny delicacy. They are neither dry nor oily. They lose the natural tea-rose tint—a blend of gold and pink. This probably is due to a slacking of circulation, laziness on the part of the capillaries which, resting just beneath the surface of the skin, produce the rosy tone.

A complexion of that character is improved and enlivened by the addition of a film of rouge placed high on the cheeks. A rich damask shade is better than faint pinks. There must be restraint in the application, also careful blending with powder so no clear-cut border lines will be seen. We have no patience with any face decorator who does not endeavor to make a neat job of it. The use of makeup is one thing; the abuse of makeup is something else again.

The lipstick should be on friendly color terms with the acquired blush. Vivid smears are fatal on a face that has taken on tiny pleats and furrows, as every woman of advancing years should know. They'll make her look blowsy and brittle when she should appear sweet and mellow.

The dark-eyed lady of olive complexion may find that her skin grows even darker with the birthdays piling up. She is tempted to use a lighter shade of powder, but that's bad beauty business. Her rouge and lipstick should carry an orange cast if there is to be color harmony.

For the florid skin there can be no cut and dried rules. Some will accept rouge, find it flattering, others get along better without synthetic help. The seeing eye and the mirror tell the story.

Complexion batik is not to be selected casually. In some beauty shops there are opportunities for a try out and professional advice from facial operators.

HOROSCOPE

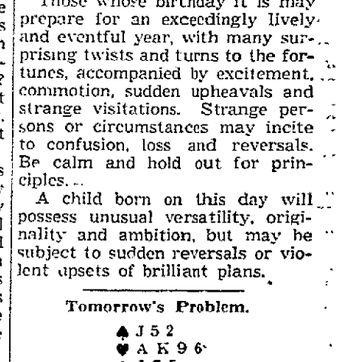
For Wednesday, Oct. 29.
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

WHILE there are auguries for an exceptionally active and progressive state of affairs, with matters moving at greatly accelerated speed, and in the direction of advancement, attainment, promotion and favors from high places, yet there are also signs of sudden upheavals, reversals, and bewilderment at some surprising turn to most promising conditions. Strangers or untoward developments may be at the bottom of this. Emotional or erratic reactions would precipitate dangers.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for an exceedingly lively and eventful year, with many surprising twists and turns to the fortunes, accompanied by excitement, commotion, sudden upheavals and strange visitations. Strange persons or circumstances may incite to confusion, loss and reversals. Be calm and hold out for principles.

A child born on this day will possess unusual versatility, originality and ambition, but may be subject to sudden reversals or violent upsets of brilliant plans.

Tomorrow's Problem.



Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

If West makes a weak double during the bidding, to which East responds with a club bid, and West eventually leads the heart Q against South's 3-No Trumps, how should this hand be played to take the maximum number of tricks?

If you are fond of Chili flavoring, and most people are, try this recipe. It will give a little variation to the routine of preparing three meals a day, and brings a distinctive type of baked beans.

CHAPTER VII

"Everybody's so nice, Polly!" Joy beamed, and meant it.

"This is a good country if you give it a chance. Where is—where's your chauffeur?"

"Palmer?" Joy looked surprised. "With the car, I suppose. He's a dream, Polly. Refined! Not like most. That's why I hired him on the spot. I think I can trust him."

"I wonder!" Polly said, to herself. Aloud she said, "Do you have many boy friends back east?"

"Scads of 'em." Joy smiled. "But no—no thrill guy. If that's what you mean. And—you?"

Thrill guy. Polly had never heard that term before. She shook her head. "Friends, yes; but I'm not in love."

"Do you want to be?"

"Who doesn't?"

Joy sighed, then laughed a bit. "I suppose you're right. You are lovely, Polly. But—naturally, you too would be very choosy."

They understood each other on that point at least, Polly realized. Each knew she was attractive to men, but each knew the one man would have to measure up high. Polly liked Joy Boone more for that.

The people and the hilarity engulfed them then. A cowboy orchestra was playing, and boom-voiced Mr. McMurray was telling everybody that it was after five o'clock and time to get to eating. The odors of barbecued beef were tantalizing anyway.

Feeding nearly 1,000 people, self-serve, wasn't nearly the task one might have imagined. Dr Palmer was amazed. Moreover the sociability here was priceless Nobody stood on ceremony although everybody was polite. A man's face was his fortune. Names, reputations, college degrees, financial ratings, all were so much chaff to be ignored. Will you have more sliced onions? Or let me get you some more coffee, ma'am? That sort of thing was paramount!

It was dark before they realized it, but four big campfires lighted the scene. Cake and candy both appeared as dessert. A group of college girls and cowboys had started singing by one fire. The orchestra moved into the house where the dining and living rooms had been cleared, and as many as could get in went there to dance. Another orchestra showed up outside. It was simply five Mexicans in costume, who had brought their string instruments and come uninvited, sure of a welcome at "Senor McMurray's rancho." These played continuously and delightfully by the fires.

Joy and Polly, and Ward McMurray, went in to dance. Ward asked his sister for first favor, over the protests of six other young men. In the second number, a dreamy kind of waltz, Ward was dancing with Joy and feeling a deep elation at the girl's extraordinary beauty and grace, when she suddenly stopped and looked beyond him.

"Well I'll be darned!" she exclaimed, low tone.

He turned. Slowly he began to grin. "Hold on," Ward drawled, "That's Sis, all right, and that's your chauffeur, Palmer, dancing with her, but out here people are very democratic, Miss Boone, and—"

She was walking toward Ken and Polly, so Ward followed her in considerable excitement. Polly had seen them. Her eyes were wide with mischief.

"Dawn just breaks on me!" Joy Boone declared when the four had come together. "I'm not very bright, but I do tumble in time. Palmer. I thought the president's name sounded familiar last night!

She was glaring at Ken Palmer in mock severity. Ken and Ward and Polly were bursting with laughter. They roared, shrieked. Joy let them have it out. But her lips were set firm when they calmed down and would have teased her some more. And there a look in her eyes.

"A contract!" she uttered, nodding emphatically. "Everything out here is done by written contract. Okay, so it is. And contracts hold!"

Ken and Polly suddenly sobered. "You mean—?" Good-looking Ken jabbed a finger at her.

"Exactly!" snapped Joy Kathryn Boone. "A contract is a contract. You'll live up to yours for the entire college year. Palmer, go bring the car! At once!"

Laughter from the four young people there on the dance floor brought other couples to them. Fun? What's up? Everyone wanted to know.

But Joy Boone held to her act of severity. The pretty eastern girl turned to the crowd about her.

"It's a matter of a contract," she announced, coldly. "Nothing funny at all. Palmer here signed a legal agreement to be my chauffeur. He acted under false pretenses. How was I to know he was a Frontier student? Frontier isn't supposed to have boys!"

"But you can take a joke, can't you?" Ward McMurray demanded.

"Oh sure!" I don't mind at all if my chauffeur is the college president's son. Palmer, I told you to go bring the car. Right now!"

The group all laughed again but Ken broke in. "Sounds like you mean it, Miss Boone."

"I do!"

"But look—excuse me, won't you? We wanted to, uh, welcome you properly." The big fellow was smiling nervously. "All in fun, see? Look, I'll destroy the contract right now."

He reached in an inner pocket and took out the paper Joy had signed last evening. He tore it to pieces, wadded it and threw it aside.

"That won't help," Joy declared. "That only releases me from paying you! I still have the copy you signed!"

"Where?"

"At home, in the dormitory. I may have it framed Or lock it in the bank. You signed. You were old enough to know better"

"No doubt about that," Ward McMurray murmured.

"Miss Boone," a cowboy put in, "I'd take it a pleasure to buy that contract off'n Palmer, ma'am. I'm a right good car driver, and easy to get along with!"

"Me too!" Another youth shouted. And he started a veritable chorus. Obviously Joy's good looks had made an impression here. Before she quite realized it the hilarious young men around them were bidding for that contract!

"Twenty-five bucks!" one shouted.

"I double and throw in my hoss!" another said.

"Two hundred bucks and two hundred prime steers!" yelled a third.

"Goodness!" Joy murmured, into Polly McMurray's ear. "Is it—are they—?"

Polly beamed excitably at her. "It's a stampede! The music's stopped. More men are coming!"

"Oh lordy, Polly! I—come on!"

Giggling but determined, Joy grabbed Polly's arm and started to flee. Then she stopped suddenly, ran back and grabbed Ken Palmer, too. She made that flustered young collegian come with her and Polly, and together the trio escaped through a side door. The hilarious crowd, trying to follow, blocked its own exit by jamming the door, and in a moment the refugees were out at Joy's new sedan.

"Quick, Palmer, you have the keys!" Joy ordered.

They piled in the front seat beside him and roared off down the desert trail, escape made good.

"Whoops!" Ken exclaimed, striving to share in their mood of adventure. "It's a great party your dad threw for us, Polly."

"Please!" Joy was very severe again. "Miss McMurray is not in service, Palmer. You will address her with the respect due."

Big Ken, still trying to smile, looked distressed too. "Aw! How much punishment do I have to suffer, hunh?"

"A contract is a contract."

"Make it stick, Joy!" Polly urged, delightedly. "He has it coming."

"All right, all right! Anyway I certainly won't howl tonight. Matter of fact, I'm lucky. Here I am out riding with the two best looking girls at Frontier. A brunet and a blond. What more could man want on this earth?"

"That's better!" Joy declared, mischief showing in her eyes. "You could be gallant if you tried."

"Who, me?" In truth, Ken was shocked at his own temerity.

Polly broke in loftily. "Oh Joy, I forgot to explain—Mr. Palmer has no interest in girls. He is allergic to them. Said so himself. He—he studies!"

That really flustered big Ken. He actually had told Polly that the day before. Moreover, he had meant every word of it.

"Well," he began anew, lamely, "the fact is, circumstances have kind of run away with me lately. I do study, and I don't have dates. Don't misunderstand me." The big fellow had gone intensely serious now. It was becoming more and more apparent that he was girl shy. He had been safe enough in a crowd, but alone under the desert stars, with two exquisite grils turning personal attention on him—!

"Why Pal-mer!" Joy cooed.

"I was trying to say," he paused to swallow. Wherever had the mood of hilarity flown to? He was a little desperate now. "I was trying to say that I have no distaste for girls. It's just that they aren't worth—that I haven't the time—"

"Oh, so!"

He had slipped sadly, and realized it! Polly and Joy laughed outright at him. Joy sat in the middle here, and all at once she moved as close to him as she could, wiggle her shoulder in snuggly fashion under his big arm.

"Palmer-walmer dar-ling, what would ums do if some old naughty girl that wasn't worf um's time just up and kisses ums?" Hmm?"

"Oh!" Ken groaned, to himself.

Polly saw now that he was suffering. "Please stop the car, Ken," she begged. "It's—there's a view here, from the hilltop!"

There was a view but neither Ken nor Joy saw it. Joy Kathryn Boone was dealing misery to a man. A shy man.

A moment ago Polly McMurray had connived with her, had been a part of this. Now, unaccountably, her emotions did an about face. Resentment swelled within her. But her tongue was tied!

Automatically Ken stopped the car as asked, but the halt didn't distract devilish Joy. When Ken turned the motor switch, he glanced right to see Joy Boone's lips pursed invitingly there in the night glow only a few inches from him.

Joy Boone! THE Joy Boone. America's most renowned young beauty. A multi-millionairess, a dare-devil adventuress, known coast to coast. Many a man both older and younger than Ken Palmer would willingly have sold his chances at heaven for this opportunity to kiss Joy Boone, Polly knew.

Polly felt her heart pounding, which made her angry. "Look, the big dipper!" she tried to interrupt. "And the North Star!"

She may as well not have existed.

The odd impromptu drama there beside her was prolonged in silence. Finally poor Ken began stammering.

"I—I—I—"

"Palmer!" Joy taunted him, low tone. "You refuse to kiss a girl! And you, yourself said I was pretty! Said you were lucky to be out with us!"

"I—yes!" He fairly croaked that.

Joy laughted. A low, tinkly, musical laugh. "It's good, Palmer. You're okay, really. I—I'm glad you didn't!"

"Glad I—didn't?" He was incredulous, whispering. Apparently Ken and Joy had forgotten Polly.

"Glad, Ken! I will call you Ken, now. I like you. Honest! I just wanted to punish you some more. And learn something. It was sweet about the contract. Good fun. You tore up yours, Ken. I'll tear up my copy as soon as I get home. Hmmm?"

He didn't know what to make of that. He just nodded, staring out the windshield. There was no hint of levity here now; only a charged, potent kind of quietude. Polly saw Joy's hand touch his, and saw Ken's big right close over Joy's dainty left in unconscious gesture. He squeezed it just once and then let go. He was breathing deeply.

"It's a fine night, after the rain and all," he finally said, matter-of-fact.

"Yes," Joy breathed.

Nobody spoke again for half a minute. Then—"Hadn't we better go back?" Ken asked. "It's, uh, sort of late and all."

"Yes," Joy breathed again. "Yes, Ken."

Ken started the car and turned it around. During their slow drive back toward Paradise Ranch, the mood here was altogether different from that on the way out. The three young people spoke now in super-polite tones, looking straight ahead. Their feeling of comradeship had vanished as quickly as it had come. They talked only of the landscape, the distant lights, the music of the Mexicans, the delicious food.

Once Polly glanced down, though. This expensive new sedan was wide, and while Joy's left side was pressed against Ken Palmer, there was a matter of four inches between the girls. It may have meant nothing; probably, Polly told herself, it was just to happen so.

But she couldn't make herself believe it!

When they had parked and started back toward the lighted house, Joy hanging on Ken's elbow, Polly felt a deep, inexplicable misery which she couldn't explain. She lagged behind a step or two, angry at herself. She didn't understand things. Didn't understand Ken Palmer, didn't understand Joy Boone. She, Polly, was just a western ranch girl, admittedly lacking in sophistication of the east. She could see that Ken had been on a spot this evening, and she was indignant at the way his shyness had been played on, but—but—

She had to go off alone, to get control of tears that came from sheer confusion.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—A thing astonishing to the average lifelong student of the world's great military campaigns is the rapid fluctuations of public hope and fear, confidence and apprehension with the weekly or monthly flow and ebb in the tide of today's great battles.

Johnson

Germany slashes suddenly at the vast empire of Russia and we are told, on the basis of what happened in France and the Scandanavian countries that it will all be over in four weeks. Russia retreats, turns and holds on and we learn that the Nazi army has failed. England launches her own blitzkrieg in North Africa and we jubilate. Germany lashes back and we are filled with gloom.

Wars just don't work that way. Every one is a little different. There was a large element of luck in the swift German victory over France. French elements of defense were not properly disposed. The distances were short, the country rich, the system of hard roads to bring German motorized forces into concentrated action were good

Russia was an entirely different problem—a country of magnificent distance, few and poor roads, masses of men to sacrifice—it was more like fighting a row of pillows than bowling at a pyramid of duck-pins. No such immediate victory was possible and the Nazis seemed to understand this — perhaps not well enough, but their dispositions were entirely different.

It is hard to draw precise parallels with the past because we have two new elements—motorized ground troops and aerial navies. But we would do well to remember our own Civil war.

Did you ever stop to think of the situation, just before Gettysburg, with Lee's army ravaging Pennsylvania in separate columns not unlike the three-pronged attack of the Germans in Russia and threatening Harrisburg, Philadelphia and even Washington from the north and west? Even Gettysburg was a bit of 'uck for the north and, but for blunders by Longstreet and Stewart it might have turned out differently—as did Chancellorsville and Fredericksburg and second Manassas.

Napoleon, on at least two occasions, was within a hair's breadth of defeat. It is impossible to judge this war at this stage. New elements may enter at any moment—for example our taking on Japan.

What was the element that sustained both Lincoln and Napoleon, in spite of days as black as the pit? It was neither any cocky conclusion from momentary victory nor any confidence in victory at every local success. It was a dogged determination to minimize all moments of apparent disaster and a sublime faith in eventual victory.

Perhaps no man on earth has these qualities to an extent equal to those of Winston Churchill. That he is impulsive and sometimes unreasoning beyond excuse is apparent from many incidents in his career—Antwerp, Gallipoli, Salonika, the Skagerrack, Norway, Greece and Malta—but his unshakable determination places him among the great leaders.

For the rest of us, it would be well not to indulge in too many ups and downs from the war bulletins. In many ways and in the wider sense we have had all the breaks, not the least of them was the decision of the two aspiring world conquerors. Hitler and Stalin to tear out each other's entrails.

SETS UP VOTE MACHINERY FOR MUNY ELECTION

Board Calls Precinct Judges To Instruction Meetings; Rallies Scheduled.

With municipal and township elections exactly one week away the Richland county board of elections today started setting its machinery in motion to receive the ballot from voters in 93 precincts throughout Mansfield and Richland county.

Precinct judges for the city of Mansfield met last night in the board's offices to receive instruction and tonight the 51 precinct judges from outside this municipality will convene at the board's office for a similar session.

The only new phase entering into instructions this year will be directed to rural precinct judges tonight, according to George C Balliet, board chairman. This has to do with rural voters, who, in keeping with new state legislation, must sign the poll book themselves on election day in addition to being listed by the clerk. These signatures will provide a means of verification, Balliet explained, and will prevent any possible fraud.

Ballots and other election supplies will be furnished to precinct judges the end of this week and the first of next. County judges will receive their equipment Saturday and municipal judges their supplies on Monday.

Meanwhile plans moved forward for two city-wide rallies to be staged by Democratic and Republican factions tonight and Wednesday. Republicans will hold their second city-wide rally tonight in the G.O.P. headquarters in the Mohican building with Mayor William J. Locke, now seeking a second term, and Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton as the principal speakers.

The city-wide Democratic rally is scheduled for Wednesday night in party headquarters and is one of five slated by the Democrats for the week. The others include a meeting of Third Ward workers at party headquarters tonight and a meeting of the Colored Democratic club at 65 East Sixth street also scheduled for tonight. First and Fourth Ward workers have announced a pep session for Wednesday night at party headquarters.

An interpretation of autumn outdoor life is presented in the Book Shop window by Mansfield Girl Scouts as a feature of National Girl Scout Week and particularly of Arts and Crafts day which the organization observes today. The display, stressing conservation in connection with national defense, was arranged by Mrs. Richard Fensch, publicity chairman for Girl Scout week, and Mrs. Henry Paulsen. They spent several days gathering the foliage, moss and other specimens that furnish a background for mounted birdlife and a live goldfish, sole occupant of a tiny pool. One feature that attracts the juvenile eye is a tin can stove used in camp by the Scouts and the egg that fries atop it.

Mansfield police were almost certain they had apprehended a desperado when they found a pistol on a colored transient picked up near the Mansfield Tire and Rubber Works early this morning Their suspicion turned to amusement, however, when they found it was only a toy "Lone Ranger" pistol. The transient, who hails from Dublin, Ga., seemed very happy about the arrest and entertained the police with several tunes from a mouth organ he carried. Police found about 30 articles in his pockets, "mostly junk," they said.

RESCUE SQUADS PUMP POISONS OUT OF SHAFT

Deadly Gases Hamper Work at Nortonville, Ky.; 33 Escape Alive.

NOROTONVILLE, Ky.— (U.P.) — Rescue squads pumped deadly gases from the Daniel Boone mine today and recovered the bodies of 15 explosion victims.

The squads, working in shifts of 21 men, had lowered themselves through the mine's airshaft on a bleak Kentucky hillside to repair the ventilating system and drive out the gases hampering their rescue efforts.

The dead, badly burned, were lying in a tunnel 120 feet below the surface and 1,500 feet from the air shaft. Forty-eight men were in the mine when the explosion occurred at 7:30 a. m. yesterday, but 33 were rescued two hours later.

Shortly after 2 a. m. today four rescue workers made their way from the air shaft through the tunnel and past the bodies to the main entrance of the mine. Mules were hitched to cars and led in for the bodies lying 4,000 feet from the entrance. The cars bearing the victims emerged between 3:15 and 4 a. m.

Families of the victims mingled with the crowd of 800 onlookers watching the rescue preparations yesterday. The throng dwindled during the night until only 50 were left huddling around the bonfires on the steep hillside near the airshaft.

Workmen believed that an open light on a miner's cap had ignited gas and caused the explosion.

The Sterling Coal company, operator of the mine, announced those killed were:

E. Keys, 35; Roberty Joccy, 35; Will Compton, 54; 'Gus Pryor, 48; Burt Cunningham, 35; Edgar Adams, 32; Neely Todd, 45; Junior Gambling, 30, Obie Wells, 30; Other Sisk, 32; Robert Running, 25, Ike Whitfield, 55; Goldie Gamblin, 30, Ben Martin, 45, and Dan Pearson, 50.

Compton was foreman of the crew. All of the men except Dunning were married.

Another mine accident took the lives of two men at the North Diamond mine of the West Kentucky Coal company near Earlington, 12 miles from here. Clyde Austin, 27, and John R. Phelps, 28, were killed in a slate fall.

Speaking For Myself.

I see that the Duchess of Windsor has a pair of jeweled clips that look exactly like Merle Oberon's Merle has the prettiest jewels of any movie actress I know; the duchess owns the most chic jewelry I've ever seen on a Duchess . . . Papa Walter Huston must be mighty proud of son John Huston's brilliant success as the director of "The Maltese Falcon." That Hammett mystery is one I'd read five times, and as an old Maltese Falcon fan I can testify that young Huston's version translated the book to celluloid perfectly—body and bones, character and suspense. If he can do this once more, he'll top Hitchcock.

George Abbott tells me "Best Foot Forward" is the biggest musical comedy hit he ever had. Consequently, a tender look comes into his usually sharp eye when he speaks of "his kids." "I love them," Mr. Abbott admits.

STRIKE AVERTED

Toledo Traction Firm Agrees To Pay Increase.

TOLEDO —(U.P.)— A strike of 400 street car and bus operators of the Community Traction company was averted today when the company granted demands for wage increases.

Charles H. Forsgard, president of the company, said wage increases demanded for eight night service men by the street car and bus operators union were granted yesterday after a week-end strike vote by the union.

Fifteen Toledo commission houses were closed today by a strike of 60 members of the Teamsters and Chauffeurs union (AFL) who demanded wage increases.

Roosevelt Calls For Armisitice Observance Nov. 11

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Mindful of the "forces of lawlessness and inhumanity" which have been set loose again in the world, President Roosevelt today issued his annual proclamation calling for observance of Armistice day, Nov. 11.

This year he called upon the people to pause on the anniversary of the ending of the first World war "to show gratitude for the past, to rededicate the nation to the fundamentals of human liberty, and to defend our future."

He invited all appropriate ceremonies in schools, churches and other suitable places on the occasion.

The Armistice day of Nov. 11, 1918, the presidential proclamation declared, "marked the successful end of a war which undeniably saved democracies from imperialistic conquest." A generation of mankind lived in peace thereafter, Mr. Roosevelt said, but "forces of lawlessness and inhumanity have again been unleashed against us."

DIE IN FLAMES

TSINGTAO, China — (AP) — Scores of persons were burned to death and thousands left homeless today when fire of unknown origin swept through the waterfront district of this Shantung peninsula port.

A strong wind fanned the blaze and turned it into the most destructive conflagration the city has known since the burning of Japanese-owned cotton mills in 1937.

DEATH TOLL 16 IN BUS BLAZE

Five Bodies Still Unidentified In Tragedy; Four-Way Probe Started.

(By International News Service)

CLANTON, Ala —The death toll from the burning of a Montgomery-to-Birmingham passenger bus Sunday night rose to 16 today with the death of William F. Penn, a CCC youth from Troy, Ala.

Penn's death came as four investigations were started to determine the cause of the tragic accident.

The inquiries were launched by state, county and local authorities, and by officials of the Greyhound Bus company. The investigaters had little information to work on, except for the death bed statement of the bus driver, W. P. Altman, 27, of Birmingham.

Altman, just before he died in a Clanton hospital, said a fire had somehow broken out inside the bus, and that in his anxiety to put out the flames the vehicle crashed into a concrete bridge railing over a small culvert four miles south of Clanton.

The impact sprayed flaming gasoline over the entire bus. The fire burned so fiercely nothing was left of the bus but the hulk.

Of the injured, only Otis Lunsford of Westville, Fla., a soldier at Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga., remained in critical condition today.

Five bodies still had not been identified today, and authorities said it was possible some of them might never be identified, so badly were the bodies burned.

CHANGE FARM LOAN OFFICE

Bureau Directors Vote to Establish Uptown Headquarters.

Establishment of an uptown office for the Richland County National Farm Loan association was authorized last night by directors of the organization meeting in the office of the Richland County Farm bureau at 251 East Third street.

Vance Clever, secretary-treasurer of the association, said this morning that a room in the Richland Trust building had been rented in line with this decision and will be opened to accommodate patrons Nov. 1.

Removal of the loan association headquarters from Farm Bureau offices was necessitated by an increasing flow of business by the association, Clever continued.

Jointly occupying the new headquarters will be the Production Credit association, another branch of the Farm Credit administrations, association officials announced.

Speaker to Tell How to Insure Against Losing Valuable Papers.

Methods of making sure you don't lose valuable deeds, wills, insurance policies, bonds, marriage licenses and the like will be explained, with the aid of motion pictures, to members of the Mansfield Gyro club at their bi-weekly meeting at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Speaker will be R. F. Lodrick of the Remington-Rand company. Program chairman will be Harold E. Amsbaugh. Chairmen for the next two meetings, Nov. 12 and Nov. 26, will be Harold Garrison and Harold Dysart, respectively.

'REFRESHER COURSE' TO AID ARMY FLYING CADETS PLANNED

Mansfield youths wishing to enlist as flying cadets in the army air corps will be given a chance to win a flying cadet scholarship despite the lack of college training through a new refresher school to be held in the city in the near future.

Many young men who would like to enlist with the air corps but are unable because they do not have two years of college training nor the necessary knowledge to pass a written examination necessary for entrance will be enrolled in the school.

The refresher school, which will be conducted by the Harrington air service, will be held at a downtown classroom in evening sessions. Applicants will be taught trigonometry, literature, history, geography, arithmetic, algebra and plane geometry.

The courses will be taught by local school teachers and are being presented with the co-operation of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce and Board of Education.

Application for enrollment in the refresher classes should be made at the Harrington air service office at the Municipal airport. Youths between 20 and 27 years of age are eligible.

More and more, men without college degrees are winning aviation cadet scholarships by the expedient of going to school and brushing up on the subjects of which they must have a good foundation to qualify for the air corps.

A year ago college men got virtually all of the 120 cadet scholarships offered monthly in the Fifth corps area. Now there are 325 scholarships monthly, and one out of seven goes to non-college men.

Schools are under way in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Toledo, Portsmouth and Steubenville, while classes are planned at Lima, Canton and Youngstown.

SET FOR DINNER

100 Reservations Made For Merchants' Party Tomorrow.

Members of the Retail Merchants association will turn aside from daily business problems tomorrow night to attend their annual dinner meeting and entertainment program scheduled for 6:30 p. m. in the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

More than 100 reservations have already been received, V. H. Lodde, association secretary, announced today.

Entertaining the merchants will be "Doc" Houde, novachord artist, and Buddy Lyons, 15-year-old Richland county outh, who recently made a hit on Major Bowes' amateur program with his bird and animal imitations. Mack Sauer of Leesburg, editor and humorist, will be the principal speaker.

Members will also elect, three new trustees and will hear annual reports from Ray M. Calene, president, and Secretary Lodde. John W. Graham is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

RITES ARE SET

Funeral services for Robert H. Fenner, 60, of 215 Penn avenue, who died Monday in General hospital, will be held at 2 p. m Wednesday at the Finefrock Funeral home, in charge of Rev. Charles Sheriff and Venus Lodge F. and A. M.

Survivors are his widow, a daughter, Mrs Harry Leach, and a sister, Mrs. Flora DeLancy, all of Mansfield. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

100 EXPECTED

Meet Here Tomorrow to Study Curb on Public Spending.

Approximately 100 representatives of taxpayer groups from Richland and adjoining counties will meet in Mansfield Chamber of Commerce rooms tomorrow at 7.30 p. m to consider measures for initiating a district campaign to arouse public sentiment in support of reductions in federal non-defense expenditures.

Research officials of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce will address the attendants in one of several district meetings being held throughout the state under the direction of the state chamber organization.

Dr. Arch D. Schultz, director of the state chamber's department of research, will speak to the representatives of service clubs, civic groups, women's and farm organizations, and local chambers of commerce, urging them to take immediate steps to use their influence to reduce non-defense spending.

Robert C. Remy, president of the Mansfield chamber, will preside at the meeting. John G Routzon, secretary-manager, will be in charge of arrangements.

Will Sentence 3 Big Tobacco Firms On Monopoly Count

LEXINGTON, Ky.—(INS)—U. S. Circuit Judge H. Church Ford prepared to pass sentence today on the nation's three biggest tobacco companies and 13 of their executives, found guilty on federal monopoly and price-fixing charges after a 21-week trial.

The guilty verdicts were returned yesterday by a jury which took the case under advisement Saturday and recessed for the week-end.

Companies found guilty were the American Tobacco company, Liggett and Myers Tobacco company, and the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company. The American Cigaret and Cigar company was found not guilty.

Executives found guilty were George W. Hills, sr., president, James E. Lipscomb, jr., Paul Hahn and Vincent Riggio, of the American Tobacco company; James W. Anderson, president, William A. Blunt, Edward H. Thurston, and George W. Whitaker, of Liggett and Myers; and William Reynolds, executive committee chairman, S. Clay Williams, board chairman, James A. Gray, president, James W. Glenn, and Edward A. Darr, of R. J. Reynolds.

Maximum penalties on the counts would be $20,000 fines against the companies, and $20,000 fines and five-year prison terms against the individuals.

CHECK THEFT OF 4 PURSES

Police Told Pocketbooks Stolen From Plant Lockers.

Mansfield police are investigating the theft of four women's pocketbooks from the women's locker room in the Ideal Electric company. Total value stolen amounted to only $9.

J. W. Funk, assistant superintendent of the plant, reported yesterday afternoon that the purses were stolen between 9:30 a. m., and 12 noon, yesterday.

Police said that entry to the locker room was made from the exterior. A large iron bar was used to break a hole in the window, through which the thief supposedly reached to unlock the window.

DRIVER FINED

SHELBY — Pleading guilty to reckless driving charges, William Snay, 13 Jeffrey avenue, Shelby, was fined $5 and costs in Mayor W. R. Morris' court Monday.

Mansfield-Massillon Still Rated Tops on Ohio Grids

Sport Podge by Rex Hess

You'd think with the statistics showing such a great advantage for Massillon in last Friday night's battle, sports writers covering the game would consider Mansfield lucky to gain a 6 to 6 tie, and would write their yarns accordingly.

But Mansfield got a "good press" from all the scribes covering the game. All of them, including Alex Zirin of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, Sam Fogg of the Canton Repository, Spiv Harris of the Mt. Vernon News, the staffer for the Akron Beacon-Journal, AND Luther Emery of the Massillon Independent, joined in praising the courageous defensive battle staged by the Tygers, and giving them full credit for the 6 to 6 deadlock.

Said Fogg in the Canton Repository:

"An alert and brilliantly courageous Mansfield team staked a valid claim for a share of the 1941 state scholastic title by fighting Massillon's mighty Tigers to a 6-6 draw.

"The two elevens, both unbeaten, locked in a bitter, bruising battle, and the deadlock was a fair decision on the struggle. The contest wasn't sensational to watch, it was crashing, high class Ohio scholastic football as played by two fine elevens."

And the Akron Beacon-Journal:

"A hard-driving Mansfield football team that fought stubbornly when backed up to its own goal posts, tied the Washington high school Tigers 6 to 6 and thereby halted Massillon's consecutive winning streak at 38 games."

And Luther Emery in the Massillon Independent:

"All good things must come to an end, and they did at Tiger Stadium when an inspired Mansfield high school team beat the statistics to tie the Washington High Tigers 6-6 and thereby halt the Massillon consecutive victory streak at 38 games.

"It wasn't as bad as it could have been, for the score could just as well read 7-6 either way, but neither team could make the extra point. So Mansfield for the second time in seven years puts an end to a streak with a tie score.

"The Tygers stopped a 21-game streak in 1937 with a 6-6 tie, and still have the distinction of being the only Ohio high school team to successfully tie a Massillon eleven since Canton McKinley twisted the Bengal's tail in the finale of the 1934 season."

And Emery continues:

"The Tigers moved easily enough in mid-field, but once inside the 25-yard line it was like banging into a stone wall. Two big ends, Joe Romano and Bob Winbigler, and a hard-tackling secondary led by Bill Doolittle, made life miserable for Tiger ball carriers when they tried to gain ground in pay dirt.

"Because of the record rolled up by Tiger teams the last four years, one almost loses sight of a couple things the Tigers can be proud of.

"While Mansfield is rejoicing over tieing Massillon, the Tigers can boast being the first team to cross Mansfield's goal line this season, as well as setting a new national record: 39 games without defeat."

* * *

And in another story the Independent said: "Mansfield has a fine band as well as a tough football team. Massillon fans were only too ready to admit that as the red and blue clad Tyger musicians marched off the field after a performance which ranked with the best ever given by an out-of-town band at Tiger stadium."

CITY 'A' BASKETBALL LEAGUE HOLDS MEET

A meeting of the City "A" basketball league will be held at Yuncker Brothers sporting goods store on Thursday, Oct. 30, at 7:30 p. m.

All team managers are requested to be there to prepare for the opening of the league on Nov. 18.

Anderson Dropped From Buckeye Squad

Ohio Coach Explains Action Was Taken For Good of Team

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Last spring, when Coach Paul E. Brown took over the football reins at Ohio State university, he told his squad "If you want to play football here, you must live up to our rules."

The mentor, in his first big-time season after an 11-year high school regime, had proved today that he meant every word of it by dismissing Charley Anderson, senior starting end, from the squad.

* * *

A terse statement—"for the welfare of the squad, and for the future welfare of Ohio State university football, Charles Anderson has been dismissed from the squad"—was Brown's only explanation.

Pressed for a reason for his action which left only five ends, three of them sophomores, on his injury-riddled squad, Brown had only a "No further comment" reply.

Anderson was one of "Brown's boys," for the six-foot, 196-pound Negro pass-snatcher had played for him four years at Massillon high school before coming to Ohio State. For the last two seasons Anderson had on his letter at end under Coach Francis A. Schmidt, and had started each of the four games this year.

With Anderson definitely out of the Buckeye picture, the starting end duties will fall to Leon Schoenbaum, Huntington, W. Va., and Bob Shaw of Fremont, both sophomores. Back of them will be Sam Fox and Pete Hershberger letter winners the last two years, and Bill Sedor of Shadyside, a sophomore who has yet to break into a game.

Anderson was scholastically ineligible when Brown and his staff moved in at Ohio State, but he doubled his work during the spring and summer quarters to make up his deficiencies. He had scored two touchdowns this year, one against Southern California and one against Purdue—his marker against the Boilermakers being the winning margin.

Rumors had been heard around the squad room that Anderson had not trained as hard as Brown's system required; that he had neglected to perform some of the play-charting chores, explaining to team mates that "I charted all those plays five years ago. Why do it again?" and that he had mussed up assignments on the field.

Reports also trickled back from Albuquerque, N. M., when the Bucks were en route to the Southern Cal game, that Brown was dissatisfied with Anderson's mental attitude toward football, and that he had censured him for his "loafing tactics."

Anderson, asked whether he had been warned previous to being dismissed from the squad, answered:

"What did Mr. Brown tell you? Whatever he said goes for me. I'm sorry it had to happen, but what good does that do now?"

The dismissed gridder said he planned to stay in school and finish his education, although he did not expect to be reinstated as a squad member.

* * *

"It looks like I'm through for good," he said, "whenever 'Mr. P.' says anything, it usually is a closed matter."

* * *

Anderson denied that he had "dogged it," in practice or in a game.

"My knee injury," he said, "wouldn't allow me to go at top speed—but regardless of how bad my knee hurt me, I didn't miss a practice this year."

In addition to shifting Schoenbaum into Anderson's post against Pittsburgh next Saturday, injuries probably will force two backfield changes. One will move Johnny Hallabrin to fullback, with George Lynn taking Hallabrin's quarterback spot, and the other will be at left halfback, where Les Horvath or George Zavitoske will replace Dick Fisher.

HAMILTON PACES J. A. C. ALLEY LOOP

Hamilton rolled high total of 489 in the J. A. C. bowling league at Colony alleys last night, while Hollingsworth took game honors with 203, the only game to hit the 200 mark.

GOPHERS INJURED

MINNEAPOLIS—(INS)—A large casualty list containing key players today forced Coach Bernie Bierman to search for suitable replacements to be used against Northwestern Saturday. Capt. Bruce Smith and Herman Frickey, halfbacks, and Bill Daley, fullback, were among the injured.

Safety Cabs Finally Lose

Drop Two Games But Retain League Lead.

Safety Cabs, league leaders in the Commercial "C" kegling loop, dropped their first game and their first match of the season last evening at Colony alleys when Mayer Drugs tripped them 2-1.

The Cabs, with 16 wins and two losses, still hold a two-game lead over the Drugs.

Here's Action On Gridiron

Oregon's best football team in years received a severe setback when the U. C. L. A. squad rose up to smite 'em, 14 to 7, before 40,000 fans in Los Angeles. Dean Strawn, U. C. L. A. back, dives for yardage here.

Injuries Scramble Dope In Junior High Title Battle

Comparative scores give John Simpson a decided edge in the pre-game dope for the second annual junior high school city football championship battle tomorrow night at Stadium field.

But both Simpson and Johnny Appleseed squads have lost important first string players, and the dope sheet becomes decidedly scrambled as the junior high classic approaches.

Joe Komjenovich, regular Simpson tackle, suffered three cracked ribs in the last game with Bellville, and Albert McQuestion, regular end, is laid up with an infected finger.

On the other side of the ledger Appleseed also has a regular tackle out of action, Sheldon Shaffer being benched with a broken finger.

"We've got a good, but it's still a green team," Coach Bob DeHaven of Simpson said today, "and I don't know how the boys will stand the big-game pressure with Komjenovich and McQuestion out of the lineup for the first time."

Simpson will be defending the city title it won last year with a one-touchdown victory.

Appleseed will not only be out for revenge for last year's defeat, but will be battling for victory as a parting gift to its coach, Paul Cameron, who leaves Friday for service as a physical instructor in the U. S. army.

* * *

Win, lose or draw, the Appleseed team will have a dinner at the school Thursday evening as a farewell party for Coach Cameron.

The season's record shows John Simpson playing a 20-20 tie with Madison reserves while Appleseed lost to the same team 7-19. Simpson swamped Bellville reserves 69-0 and Appleseed defeated the Bellville club 32-0.

Appleseed played a scoreless tie with Butler high school's first team, and Simpson defeated Butler 12-6. Simpson lost to Galion 6 to 7, and Galion failed to show up for a game with Appleseed. The Appleseeds also have a 18-7 victory over Sandusky junior high to their credit.

Probable lineups for the two teams will be:

Appleseed — Murray Swihart, le; Dick Haley, lt; Bob Hall, lg; Earl Wendell, c; Bob Cupp, rg; Gene Joseph, rt; Cuvier Mong, re; Chester Miller, qb; Frank Bickel, lh; Lester Myers, rh; Jerry Zeller, fb.

Game arrangements sponsored by the Downtown Coaches association will give the game all the color of a regular high school football tilt. The public address system will be operated with a play by play report of the progress the players, and the active cheering of the ball, programs will be sold giving the lineups and numbers of ing sections of the two schools will provide all the noise necessary.

The Downtown Coaches are offering a trophy to the best band in addition to the three-year trophy they donated last fall and now held by John Simpson.

Student tickets sold at the schools are priced at 15 cents, while all tickets at the gate will be 25 cents.

Scots Face Mt. Union

Wooster Team Favored on Paper To Win Tilt.

WOOSTER — Mt. Union and Wooster football teams, rivals on the gridiron since 1902, meet here this coming Saturday before Wooster's 13th annual High School Day crowd.

Wooster has a long edge on Mt. Union in victories, thanks to the seasons between 1915 and 1939 when L. C. Boles placed Wooster among the leaders of Ohio Conference football.

To date, Wooster has won 20, Mt. Union eight, and four games resulted in tie scores.

* * *

Coach Johnny Swigart, directing his second Wooster football team as head coach, recalls three games, played in the 1921, 1922 and 1923 seasons. Swigart quarterbacked Wooster teams to 6-10, 19-3 and 45-7 victories in those games.

Last season the Scots won a 24-0 game.

Coach Harry Geltz brings a team which got away to a great start with a 40-0 victory over Hiram, but has lost every game since, 14-0 to W. and J., 32-0 to Denison, 7-6 to Marietta and 7-0 to Wittenberg.

The Scots, after tying Bowling Green 14-14, won 10-2 from Denison, lost 40-0 to Case and came back with a 20-12 victory to spoil Muskingum's homecoming last week.

Vitt For O'Doul As Tribe Chief

OAKLAND, Calif. —(INS)— One vote for Frank O'Doul as new manager for the Cleveland Indians was cast today by Oscar Vitt, who managed the Tribe in 1940.

Apprised of reports that the colorful O'Doul, manager of the San Francisco Seals in the Pacific Coast league, may be in line for the spot, Vitt remarked that it "would be a great thing for Cleveland."

"He'd add some color to the American league," said Vitt of the ex-big league player, "but of course I'd like to have 'Lefty' stay in the coast league so my boys could wallop him."

NAVY GETS BID

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— The Navy turned up unexpectedly in the ranks of bowl-conscious football teams today when naval academy officials disclosed that they already received one post-season offer and would consider any and all others if the Middies continued undefeated.

BULLS NEED REMAINING GAMES FOR LOOP LEAD

COLUMBUS — (INS) — The Columbus Bulls, leaders in the American pro league, must win their three remaining league contests to preserve their perfect standings and prevent the pressing New York Americans from pushing into a tie. The Americans gained their fourth victory in six starts Sunday by disposing of Buffalo while the Bulls were downing the Kenosha Cardinals in a non-league clash.

New York has league games remaining against Cincinnati and Milwaukee at Yankee stadium while the Bulls play Buffalo twice and Cincinnati once.

Rams Meet Blue Jays

Both Teams Prepare For Grudge Battle.

Madison's seniors are going to get first crack at the Bellville Blue Jays Thursday when the two teams play their annual classic game at the Ram field.

However, there are some reservations. Last night at a wiener roast he gave for his team Coach Al Fendrick told the seniors that as soon as one of them showed signs of not doing his job, the entire senior squad would be taken out and replaced with a new lineup.

As slated the senior squad—with one underclassman—which will start Thursday is composed of Jack Fletcher and Paul Wynn at ends, Jack Spriesterbaugh (non-senior) and Don Stone at tackles, Batson and Keller at guards, Bob Fletcher at center, Ken Windsor at quarter, Bob Garn and Roberts at halves and Reynold Bell at full.

Last night the Rams took a layoff with their wiener roast and will get a stiff workout tonight before skull practice tomorrow in the last practice preceding the game.

Meanwhile Bellville has also been preparing this week. After a slow start this season the Jays have been improving each week and last week clipped Butler 27-7 with George Dill scoring three times.

As in the past year Bellville has been pointing for the Ram game all year while the Madison squad with a stiffer schedule has been taking them as they come. In any event any odds offered either way in this game will be a b-a-d idea.

Shelby Plays Mt. Vernon

Whippet, Jacket Tilt Takes Top N. C. O. Spot.

SHELBY—The feature football game in the North Central Ohio League will take the Shelby Whippets to Mount Vernon to meet the Yellow Jackets at 8 p. m. Friday.

All six of the North Central Ohio League schools will go into action that night but the Shelby-Mount Vernon game will match two of the strongest teams in the circuit.

Shelby and Ashland however, are tied for the league football race on a point basis which is used to determine the league ranking. Both teams have won two and lost one for a point rating of four.

Marion Harding and Mount Vernon are tied for the next place with a point rating of three from one win and a tie each.

Other games Friday night will take Bucyrus to Marion Harding while Ashland will play Galion.

SCHMIDT TEAM WINS 3 STRAIGHT GAMES

MOSCOW, Idaho—(AP)—A football team on the verge of coming apart at the seams last year has been put together with zippers in 1941 by Francis Schmidt at the University of Idaho.

Fourteen Schools Keep Perfect Slate

Tigers Expected To Lay Claim To State Title Once More

COLUMBUS—(AP)—If every unbeaten-untied team in the state claims a portion of the Ohio high school football championship this fall, indications are that it will be sliced fairly thin.

With the season three-fourths gone, 14 teams are rolling along with six straight victories—three of them with unsullied goal lines—while right behind are some powerhouses whose records are marred only by deadlocks with other top-notch elevens.

In the all-clean section with six straight wins, are (week-end scores in parentheses): Portsmouth East (60, Pedro 0), Upper Sandusky (38, Tiffin Calvert 6), Chauncey-Dover (20, Glouster 6), Warren (7, Erie Academy 2), Canton Lehman (12, Canton Timken 6), Cleveland Collinwood (32, Glenville 0), Xenia O. S. & S. O. Home (77, Lebanon 0), Powhatan (38, St. Johns 0), Cleveland Lincoln (7, West Tech 6), Bexley (20, Westerville 0), Mifflin (33, Grove City 0), Logan (16, Middleport 13), Bergholz (41, Carrollton 0) and Leetonia (45, McDonald 0).

Mifflin, Xenia O. S. & S. O. Home and Portsmouth East have not permitted an enemy cleat mark in their end zones, the Cadets having run up 272 points to lead the state and Portsmouth East having 263 for second place.

Mansfield and Massillon, despite their 6-6 tie last week-end, must rate as probably the two top teams in the state, and unless beaten before the campaign is over Massillon probably will hang on to the state title it claimed after last season's sparkling 10-victory performance.

But the team championship race is no hotter than the one-man scoring scrap, in which three scintillating stars are raging along on almost even terms. Out front this week is Portsmouth East's 140-pound quarterback, Don Reinhardt, with 119 points, 36 of which came last week-end as he romped for five touchdowns, booted five dropkicks for extra points and caught a pass for another in the Pedro rout.

That splurge allowed him to snatch the scoring lead from Russell (Flying Express) Wolfe, the Upper Sandusky star, who had a comparatively "poor" day as the Rams beat Tiffin Calvert for the first time since 1929. All the "Flying Express" did was to hop up with touchdown runs of 28, 83, 49 and 28 yards, and two placekicks for extra points—the day's total of 26 moving him up to 112 for the season. The yardage of the four jaunts boosted his touchdown-run average to 41.8 for the year.

In third place, with 110 points, is Jack Ley, the triple threat star of the Chauncey-Dover aggregation, who scored all 20 points in Friday's triumph over Glouster. The team has counted 138 points this year, and Jack has collected 110 of them.

Paul R. Fiske, Ley's principal, said "Jack's total probably would be a little higher, but the team did not use the placekick for conversions until after the third game.

The heavy point totals of the three leaders could not be more satisfying, however, than a mere three chalked up Friday by Jimmy McGonagle, quarterback of the Logan club. With the chieftains tied with Middleport at 13-13, and five seconds to play, Jimmy booted a 17-yard field goal to keep his team's victory string intact.

Two other clean records were extended in the closing minutes, Cleveland Lincoln scoring in the final three minutes to nose out West Tech 7-6, while Canton Lehman waited until the last 90 seconds to come up with its winning marker over Timken. Canton McKinley, behind 6-0 at the half and 13-6 at the three-quarter mark, counted twice in the last session to beat Alliance 18-13, with Fullback Tom Harris getting all the 18 points.

On the oddity side: Centerburg of Knox county has lost two and played four ties, three of them scoreless; Danville, in the same county, has won two, lost one, and played three ties, two without a score; Sidney, winner of its first game, has dropped five straight.

* * *

Among this week's top contests are Massillon at Warren and the Bexley-Grandview struggle. Warren and Bexley are unbeaten and untied, while Grandview and Massillon have been tied once in six attempts.

Minnesota, Texas Win

Break Even In A. P. Best Grid Team Poll.

By BILL BONI.

NEW YORK—(AP)—If Minnesota and Texas, leaders in opposite parts of the country and exponents of contrasting types of football, were to meet today their game would end in a tie.

That, at least, is the view of 127 of the country's gridiron experts. Voting in the third Associated Press ranking poll of the year, in which each man lists in order the teams he considers to be the top ten, they placed the Golden Gophers of the Western conference and the Longhorns of the southwest in a deadlock at the head of the parade.

On a 10-9-8-7-6, etc., scoring basis, each, team polled 1,161 points. Minnesota held the edge in first-place votes, with 60 to 53, but Texas made up for that with more solid support in the secondary positions.

* * *

The poll also left little doubt of which teams are the consensus favorites in next Saturday's three major battles, each of which already is an assured sellout. Vindicated by the 7-0 score in their ranking of Minnesota two notches ahead of Michigan last week, this time the experts make the Gophers a strong choice to continue unbeaten against Northwestern, by rating the Wildcats ninth.

Club League Stages Closest Bowling Race In Mansfield

Optimist club and Page Dairy continued in a tie for first place in the Club bowling league last night at Colony alleys as each team scored a 2-1 win. Four teams are tied for third place, just one game behind the leaders in the tightest kegling race in town.

Art Hilborn turned in the only 600 total of the evening, with 602 on games of 225-177-200.

Christman of Page Dairy chalked up high game with 255, while Swimley of Doherty Men's Frat rolled 244.

WILDCATS LOSE TACKLE

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—California scribes are hinting there may be a divorce in the Pacific Coast conference before long with Stanford leading the richer California schools away from the northern members, who have more votes on the "purity" problem . . . The Big Ten is stirred up about Frank Leahy's skill at selling Notre Dame to boys who had been tabbed as the private property of conference schools. . . . At Ann Arbor they whisper that Michigan's best frosh end was rescued only after a searching party invaded the Notre Dame campus.

The Mitchel Field (N. Y.) and Fort Monmouth (N. J.) basketball teams will bring a swell collection of former college stars to Madison Square Garden for the golden jubilee tournament Nov. 24. Mitchel players include Lieut. Chuck Gelatka from Mississippi State, Lieut. Homer Forsythe of Ohio Wesleyan, Sgt. Sid Glickman of Brooklyn college and Corp. Joe Michalowski of Worcester Poly. They're coached by Lieut. Louis Tschudi of Dayton U. . . . Heading the Fort Monmouth squad are Julie Kasner of C. C. N. Y., Joe Killian of Georgia and Thurman Hall of Texas.

Sons Of Herman Gain On Buckeyes

Second-place Sons of Herman gained a game on the Industrial bowling league-leading Buckeye Beers last night at Colony alleys by blanking "36" Bar while the Beers were taking a 2-1 win from Old Towne Ale.

Black of Sun Glow turned in high total with 534 and Urschel of the Buckeyes had high game of 219. Black had a 217 game, and Cusic of Old Towne Ale 208.

THEATERS

Manhattan Comedy.

The breezy young man who takes sidewalk pictures comes into his own in "New York Town," the Fred MacMurry-Mary Martin comedy, opening Wednesday at the Ohio. MacMurray plays the photographer who knows all the angles and tries to help a small town girl win a wealthy young bachelor. Mary Martin appears in her first straight dramatic role as a department store food demonstrator who meets the bachelor when trying to help MacMurray work a scheme.. Robert Preston in the role of the bachelor, Eric Blore and Lynne Overman are others in the cast.

Laurel and Hardy.

Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy, the screen's zany comedians, make their appearance in "Great Guns," their first picture in more than a year, opening at the Madison tomorrow. The two masters of slapstick take over the army in such a way that the navy is glad to have escaped attention although their exuberance is the despair of their superiors. Edmund MacDonald plays the traditional hard-boiled sergeant and Dick Nelson and Sheila Ryan have the romantic leads. The picture marks the first time that the comedians have worked from a script that was completed before production started so that an official okeh from the comedians could be obtained. William Boyd in "Secret of the Wastelands," a Hopalong Cassidy picture, is the second attraction.

Mountaineer Romance.

Musical Comedy.

Dancing Anna Neagle plays the title role in "Sunny," film adaptation of the popular musical comedy, showing at the Park. Roy Bolger and the Hartmans headline the dance scenes that predominate the picture revolving around the romance of a young circus dancer and New Orleans socialite during Mardi Gras time. Frieda Inescort and Helen Westley are in the cast. Penny Singleton takes the Bumstead family into society via the dog show route in "Blondie in Society," the second feature.

Boys Town Drama.

"Men of Boys Town," opening today at the Majestic, carries on where "Boys Town," left off. Starring Spencer Tracy and Mickey Rooney it deals with the subject of Father Flanagan's two-fisted fight against brutality in the corrective treatment of youth. Mickey Rooney as "Whitey" leaves Boys Town in this picture but gets himself into a jam when he tries to help another boy. Young romance is portrayed by John Shelton and Ann Rutherford in "Keeping Company," the second picture, with Frank Morgan and Virginia Weidler.

WEAK TOBACCO STOCKS STEADY IN DAY'S MART

Westinghouse Hits New Low For 1941; Other Top Issues Fading.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The weak tobacco stocks of Monday steadied in today's market and offerings dried up in many other issues but recoveries were feeble.

In the early proceedings support was accorded Reynolds Tobacco "B," American Tobacco, DuPont, Sears Roebuck, General Motors and Goodyear.

Westinghouse slipped to a new 1941 bottom. Lacking rallying stamina also were U. S. Steel, Anaconda, Kennecott, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth and General Electric.

Boardrooms derived a little encouragement from the General Motors statement, which came after yesterday's session, disclosing net per common share for the quarter ended Sept. 30 of 94 cents compared with 31 cents in the 1940 months. For nine months profits were placed at $3.56 a share against $2.83 last year.

Analysts discovered further confirmation of a flattening out in the industrial curve in the federal reserve figures from member banks in 101 cities for the week ended last Wednesday showing a drop of $12,000,000 in loans to commerce, industry and agriculture.

THREE MONTHS WITHOUT SIREN

London Reports No Air Raid Warning Since July 27.

LONDON—(INS)—Britain's capital today completed three months without a single air raid warning within the metropolitan limits.

The last general alarm was sounded on the night of July 27—and that was the first London had heard for a month.

During the month of September, 1940, London experienced 113 air raid alarms. Warning sirens have sounded 132 times in 1941 and 576 times since the war began.

Miss Isabelle Giraldo of Bogota, Colombia, South America, and Dr. Laura Zirbes of Ohio State university will be the principal speakers at an educational meeting for Mansfield primary teachers and principals of elementary schools Thursday afternoon, Nov. 6, at John Simpson junior high school, Miss Dora McLeod, primary supervisor, said yesterday.

Miss Giraldo, who is traveling and studying in this country on a fellowship, will speak on "Inter-American Relations." Dr. Zirbes' topic will be "Trends In Primary Education." She is in the department of education at Ohio State.

The meeting will open at 4 p. m. in the John Simpson junior high auditorium.

SETS DATE FOR TAX PAYMENTS

The second-half personal tax collection and the final county tax collections of 1941 will begin about Nov. 15, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said today.

Although the tax books have not been completed and turned over to Treasurer Charles Payne, he said the tax bill for the last half of the year will total slightly more than $100,000.

Approximately 60 per cent of the year's personal tax charge, or $143,512, was collected during the first-half period, Payne said.

WOULD RID CITY OF 'HEADACHE'

Your Vote For Fire Levy Will Help Purchase New Trucks, Other Equipment.

The levy would change the fire department from a post-war, and we mean World war No. 1, fire fighting organization to a modern and effective one. The levy would be figured on the basis of a half mill on every dollar of assessed property or five cents on every $100 of tax valuation.

Collected for five years, the levy would provide Mansfield with about $27,000 a year or a total of $135,000 in five years to modernizing its fire department.

Almost a quarter of the levy revenue, $32,940, would be used to purchase new fire apparatus and equipment. The rest would be distributed in the following manner: remodeling of Station No. 1, $5,400; remodeling of Station No. 4, $2,160; construction of a new station to protect the western end of the city, $13,500; and improvement of the fire signal system, $13,500.

In the past 20 years, only one new piece has been purchased. Although there are only six pieces of equipment in the city. Listed according to age, they include; one three-year-old truck, the only dependable one in the city; one 12 years old, two 18 years old and two others which are 22 years old.

At present, when equipment in the central station answers a call, another truck from one of the outlying stations dashes downtown to take up a safety position at the central station. In the meantime, however, it leaves that outlying section of the city almost entirely without protection.

On several occasions during the past year, the older trucks in the department have broken down, some on the way to answer a fire call. Others have failed while on duty at fires.

What Mansfield needs most, according to Fire Chief Charles Seeburger, is new equipment to "fight fires which may strike tonight or tomorrow at your home or the homes of your neighbors." Modern trucks would allow firemen to reach the fires in the "vital first five minutes," according to the chief.

Mansfield has sprung up with mushroom growth from a village to a city. In the past quarter century it has almost doubled its population. With that doubling of population has come the great growth in the number of residences.

During the past few years, Mansfield has entered into an extensive program for extending its water supply not only for domestic use but for added fire protection.

With the exception of a Mack truck purchased in 1938, however, it has not added a single piece to its roster of fire apparatus during the past 12 years.

Tomorrow—Mansfield's "rattletrap" fire equipment.

ANNOUNCEMENT!
For the past nine years I have been associated with the late Charles A. Fox in the painting and decorating business. In fact, I was working with him at the time of his tragic fall from the Masonic Provident building. At this time I wish to announce the continuation of the business on the same fair policy that Mr. Fox followed so many years. We hope that we may enjoy the consideration of old and new customers as in other years.

LEWIS GIVEN FDR ULTIMATUM

CIO Chief Told 'There Is No Reason For Stoppage' In Mine Dispute.

the Rosedale mine of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation in Johnstown, Pa., defied the strike order and went to work. More than 100 pickets patrolled the approaches to the pit in Johnstown's 14th ward but made no attempt to restrain the workers, variously estimated to number from 100 to 250 of a day crew of 475.

Union men opposed to the strike call had predicted a back to work movement would start at the company's Franklin mine near Johnstown, but the move failed to materialize. There were no reports of a break in the strike from elsewhere.

A number of labor leaders privately voiced uneasiness over the situation growing out of the United Mine Workers' demand for a union shop. They feared that if the public's temper became further frayed, there might be legislation—or possibly an executive order—forbidding compulsory membership in a labor union as a condition of employment on work connected in any way with the defense program, or otherwise sharply circumscribing union actiivty.

The UMW's demand for a union shop was the sole issue in the strike which took practical effect yesterday morning in steel company-operated coal mines in Pennsylvania, Kentucky and Alabama. With the union shop in effect, each employe would have to become a member of the union after a probationary period.

When Lewis replied, yesterday to Mr. Roosevelt's second back-to-work request, issued Sunday, he told the president that "this fight is between a labor union and a ruthless corporation—the United States Steel Corporation." And Lewis declared further that J. P. Morgan, a director of U. S. Steel, was responsible for continuance of the dispute.

("What utter rubbish!" Morgan declared in New York.)

Lewis said he would confer tomorrow with Myron C. Taylor, former board chairman of U. S. Steel, although he added "Mr. Morgan will decide what Mr. Taylor will do."

The bushy-browed mine chieftain contended in his letter to Mr. Roosevelt that the strike could go on for an indefinite period without impairing defense production.

Benpamin J. Fairless, president of U. S. Steel, took a far different view. He announced that production in Pittsburgh and Youngstown subsidiary steel plants would have to be pinched down by 20 per cent today, and in the Chicago area to 10 per cent. Gradual curtailment will become necessary in other plants if the captive mines stay closed for long, Fairless stated.

The defense mediation board promised a speedy hearing in a CIO strike at the Brooklyn yards of the Robins Drydock and Repair company, where 14 vessels are being overhauled.

The yard employs 6,000 persons.

About 4,000 men were idle in the Pacific northwest as a result of a welder's strike which forced the closing of the Lake Washington shipyard at Houghton, Wash., the Pacific Car and Foundry company at Benton, Wash., and the Seattle structural division of the latter firm.

Cut Steel Output In Ohio Area

CLEVELAND — (AP) — U. S. Steel corporation spokesmen said today the concern's steel producing operations in the Youngstown and Pittsburgh areas would be reduced immediately because of the CIO United Mine Workers strike in mines operated by U. S. Steel subsidiaries.

They referred to a statement by the corporation's president, Benjamin F. Fairless, who announced also that corporation subsidiaries in the Cleveland-Lorain district can continue at full capacity for two weeks, but must gradually reduce operations to a full shut-down about ten days later.
